Selectmen deny peace parade permit

Wilmington selectmen denied a parade permit for a group planning a June 17 peace rally after learning that other persons in the same organization plan to engage in civil disobedience the following day.

The New England Campaign to Stop the Euromissiles had requested a parade permit for a route from Rotary Park to Avco. At the May 14 selectmen's meeting, Katie Redmond and Judy Friewirth said that the group was proposing to assemble at Rotary Park, march to Avco by way of Church, Main and Lowell streets, then return to the park for a rally. The focus of the demonstration would be the Avco plant, where missile parts are manufactured.

Selectmen on Monday night held an executive session to discuss the recommendations of town counsel on the matter. After coming out of the executive session, Chairman Jim Stewart read a list of nine conditions to be applied. Primary among these was a change in location, to the Whitefield School. He also said the group would have to post a $5 million insurance policy. Other conditions would be a route using Federal and Woburn Streets, a $1000 bond for cleanup, restricted hours from 1 to 4:30 p.m., no on-street parking and no acts of civil disobedience.

The discussion rambled, with some people asking that the location be moved to the common. Some local residents objected strongly to the group. John Sanborn took a "go back to Boston" attitude.

State Rep. Jim Miceli said he wanted to be recorded in opposition to the permit. He said that a demonstration such as this sends the wrong message to a country that would shoot a civilian airliner out of the sky.

Pat Scanlon of Andover said that the issue does not stop at the boundaries of towns.

"You people are representing, at a local level, the Constitution of the United States," he told the selectmen. He said that the $5 million insurance requirement was "a little astronomical."

"People are coming anyway," he said. "I would like to see you welcome them."

Redmond and Friewirth said they had not expected they would be allowed to speak. Friewirth spoke of the difficulty they have had in receiving a permit. "We've never had this kind of problem before," she said. "I'm not sure if harassment is the word, but it's been a very difficult process." She said that the group had an excellent reputation.

Selectman Rocco DePasquale said that the town would incur substantial police costs as a result of the demonstration. Friewirth said that the group would be able to provide its own security people, hopefully reducing the town's requirements.

Selectman Dan Ballou asked some details about the security plan.

Friewirth said that their people were trained to deal with disruptions, to work with police, and to set up people along the parade route.

Chief Bobby Stewart said that he had to anticipate opposing points of view. He would have to deploy a force that can guarantee the safety of the people.

He then asked what the group was planning on the following day, June 18.

"That's a separate action. I'd rather not discuss it. I'm not responsible for it," said Friewirth.

Chairman Stewart pressed for more information. Friewirth refused.

Anne Linehan said that she had made contact with the group. "They told me it is an act of civil disobedience," she said. "That was voluntarily furnished to me."

Chairman Stewart continued to press for more information. Friewirth refused, saying that there was the possibility of a suit, and she would rather not discuss it.

DePasquale made a motion to table the request for the permit.

A young man in the back of the room said that the civil disobedience was to be performed by other persons in the group. "We are the people for Sunday," he said.

Stewart asked if with civil disobedience, the people in the group could still claim First Amendment rights.

The young man started to speak again. Friewirth walked over and talked to him, and he was silent.

Father Victor LaVoie of St. Thomas Parish said that all he was aware of was what had come to him through a committee within the Archdiocese. He said he wanted to make it clear that what he was there for was that the Holy Father had said "War, War, Never again!"

Stewart said that he did not want to table the request, but rather deny it. DePasquale withdrew his motion to table. Selectman Bob Cam moved to deny.

Friewirth said that they were not attempting to conceal information, but they had not come prepared to speak on the Monday events. She said that they could discuss it in a Wednesday meeting between their lawyer and the town counsel.

Nicki Johnson said, "You never would have known about Monday, if someone in the audience hadn't brought it out."

The vote to deny the permit was unanimous.

One thing which makes the Shriners such a colorful organization is the willingness of the members to parade in costume. One familiar face in the Memorial Day parade in Wilmington was Vern Randall, past master of the Friendship Lodge of Masons.

Gillis walks out of housing meeting

Danny Gillis took a walk Tuesday evening at the meeting of the Wilmington Housing Authority. He got up at about 8:35 p.m. and walked out while Chairman Bill Strob was discussing an item which he said reported that the Lucci area, proposed for old age housing, was too big. The conversation, which was hardly louder than a mumble continued for about five minutes without Gillis making an appearance.

Mr. Strob had been earlier discussing, also in very low tones, the Buzzell School as housing for the elderly. Rep. Miceli, he said, had called him to say that the seniors who achieved a vote in the town meeting to have the school converted into a senior center, were still insisting on that status for the school.

"To me," Strob said, "I think is retaliation for the election." Speaking directly to Kevin McMillan, Strob continued, "You and I and Warren (Newhouse, Ed.) gave support, and others did not."

The meeting was conducted very low key. It was necessary to ask the chairman as to who was elected to what office.

Kevin McMillan was elected chairman on motion of Bill

Strob. Strob was then elected vice chairman and Elaine Hatchey treasurer.

Gillis refused to accept any office.

Gillis had started the meeting with an exhibition of a plan, prepared by engineer Ken Miller, at no cost to the WHA. The plan showed how five more buildings of housing for elderly (20 persons) could be put on the Deming Way lot if a sewer were to be extended to the sewer main near the railroad. The plan was discussed for a while.

The meeting itself was hardly to be heard. There was discussion of a modernization grant for insulation to the apartments, which was very low, and there was discussion of an advertisement for a Housing Director to take the place of Henry Borazzo who has resigned.

Then came the election. Gillis declared that he felt the leadership was "still going on" like it had been in the past after Strob was elected vice chairman. "I have other offers," or "I have other office," he declared.

"I will give myself two weeks to make up my mind."

And he walked out.

Out of the old, into the new

Wilmington's town offices will be moved this weekend to the Glen Road School.

Town Manager Buzz Stapezynski announced in the selectmen's meeting Tuesday night that the town hall would be closed for business on Friday to facilitate the move. The new town hall would be open for business at 8:30 a.m. Monday, he said.

A new telephone system has been installed. All departments can be reached through the main number, 658-3311. Also, some of the busier departments will have a direct number to bypass the switchboard.

A list of phone numbers and a layout of the building appear on page six.

Schools put up $30k for septic repairs

In a move to correct the septic system problems at the Shawshien School, the Wilmington School Committee Tuesday voted to approve the spending of $30,500 in school funds for the septic system.

The problems with the septic system have upset many parents, and an unconfirmed number—possibly two or three—of cases of illness have occurred, although there is said to be no way to prove a link between the illnesses and the septic system problems.

The school committee, in making the transfer, is also seeking to settle a suit over the spending of school funds. The committee filed the suit against the town accountant for her refusal to pay bills incurred at the end of the last fiscal year. She contended that the committee was trying to buy 1984 supplies with 1983 money.

The vote for the transfer was four to two, with Philip Fenton and Linda McMenimen opposed.

The money would be used, along with $40,000 in the town budget, to build a new septic system. Work would start immediately after school closes for the season.

Odor task force to be formed

Smells from industrial plants are certainly not new to residents of the South Wilmington area. Residents met with selectmen on Tuesday night to complain—again—about the odors that have plagued that end of town for many years.

After listening, the selectmen voted to form a citizens' task force to deal with the problem. Vera Scolastico and David Ingram led a group of residents at the meeting. Ingram said that he had traced a recent odor to Analog Devices. A security guard stopped him, to ask what he was doing. He said he was seeking the source of the smell. The guard pointed to a pipe. But when Ingram later returned, the guard denied having said the pipe was the source.

Mrs. Scolastico said she was (Continued on Page 11)

CLOCK Tock

THE CLOCKTOLK OF NEW ENGLAND
Wilmington

Decorations on early American clocks were some of the most interesting and varied working ever performed. By early American craftsmen. At first, decorations were limited to carved or inlaid materials and were prevalent on only the most expensive, usually imported clocks. By 1800, however, clocks were being imported. In 1802, the frame clock made its appearance with decorative motifs such as a glass painting. These are hand painted scenes painted on the back of a glass panel which is inset into a wooden frame which makes up the front of the clock. Often gold leaf is used and red and black work to produce a dimensional effect. A naval battle at sea of the war 1812 often was depicted on the paintings.

By 1820, less expensive clocks were being produced, so that everyone could afford a clock. Signaling with bronze powder became popular on clock cabinets and on occasion combined with paint and used on glass painting. Some places had painted scenes while some were white frosted with etching.

Main clock faces used gold leaf to enhance their appearance and their salability. The Clocktollk has recently restored an original clock face of gold leaf and hand painted floral decorations which belongs to a clock with wooden gears made about 1820. Gold leaf was also sometimes applied to cabinets. Brass hardware often decorated cabinets and some companies actually faked wood grains to give a more expensive look to the furniture.

Geoffrey Beckwith is candidate for state rep

Geoffrey C. Beckwith, of 23 Highland St., Reading has announced his candidacy for State Representative for Wilmington's Precinct 3, Reading and North Reading. Beckwith, who served as current State Rep. Mike Barrett's legislative assistant for over three and a half years, is running to succeed Barrett, who is leaving his seat to run for Congress.

"I believe that people want to see a continuation of leadership and hard work which Mike Barrett has given us on Beacon Hill," said Beckwith. "I am committed to fighting for reform of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, tough environmental laws, comprehensive education reform and more efficient government."

"As a full-time legislative assistant involved in drafting legislation, advocating for our three communities, and working with constituents to help solve their problems with the state, I was able to get a first-hand understanding of the state representative's job," Beckwith said.

"But it is not just this hands-on experience which people should keep in mind when examining my candidacy. I think a legislator should not back away from tough issues. That is why I am the first and only person in this race to take a firm stand against House Speaker Tom McGee's attempt to maintain his power on Beacon Hill," he said.

McGee is being challenged by Representative George Keverian (D-Everett), and a showdown will occur in January, 1985 when both will vie for the Speaker's job. "I have had the chance to see McGee wield his dictatorial gavel too many times," said Beckwith. "So I am pleased to join other dedicated rules reform advocates such as Mike Barrett, State Rep. Larry Alexander,

Geoffrey Beckwith

State Rep. William Benson and others in backing George Keverian. It's time for a spirit of democracy in the House."

In addition to legislative reform, Beckwith pledged to play an active role in the House Environmental Caucus, a group of 60 legislators which serves as a watchdog for enforcement of tough environmental standards.

He also targeted education as a top priority. "We have to make certain of two things. First, students in Wilmington, Reading and North Reading must be prepared effectively for the high technology of the 1980's and 1990's. Then, after we make sure that our kids are ready for a demanding college education, we have to make sure they can afford it. I'm going to concentrate my efforts on educational reform at the secondary school level and educational finances at the college level."

Beckwith was chairman of the Reading Democratic Town Committee from 1980 to 1984, and he served as Barrett's legislative assistant from January of 1979 to September of 1982. He worked as an administrative assistant in the Reading Selectmen's office from 1982 to 1983, and then joined Secretary of Economic Affairs Evelyn Murphy's staff as the assistant to the Commissioner of Commerce and Development for the state. He has been directing Mike Barrett's campaign for Congress since February.

Beckwith graduated from Reading Memorial High School, studied American Government and History at the University of Lowell and received a Bachelor of Arts degree magna cum laude, from Boston College.

Wilmington residents interested in getting involved in Beckwith's campaign, or in learning more about him, can call 944-2655, or can write to Geoff at 23 Highland St., Reading, 01867.

Sandra Walsh, for 10 years the administrative assistant and secretary was honored, Tuesday evening by present and past members of the Wilmington Housing Authority. The group held a surprise party for her at Deming Way hall.

Sandra was addressed by Henry Borrazzo, who was the housing director for the same length of time. "You and I have worked together for 10 years."

She was presented with a plaque, prepared by members of the Wilmington Housing Authority and Chairman Strob, speaking for Representative Miceli, made a presentation from Governor Dukakis, and

Gold Star Mothers

A tradition was modified at the Wilmington Memorial Day ceremonies this year. Gold Star Mothers are not usually applauded, but instead are given a moment of silence. D.A.V. Commander Fred Shine broke that tradition and called out a warm round of applause for Bernice Welch and Dorothy Fullerton, each of whom lost a son in Viet Nam. Holding the umbrella are two of Mrs. Fullerton's other sons.

Lester Ralph running for Congress

S. Lester Ralph of Reading announced recently that he will be the Republican candidate for Congress from the 7th Congressional district. The former mayor of Somerville and Middlesex County commissioner said:

"Public service is what I know best and love most. I consider it a high honor to enter an arena of public discussion and debate which will help formulate regional, state and national policy for the remainder of this century."

"It is my intention to address the overriding issues of our time: peace and world tensions, employment and the federal deficit, progress and the environment, government spending and the social needs of our people."

"My years of public service as mayor, Middlesex County Commissioner, Episcopal priest and attorney have caused me to evolve into a liberal with experience, which I consider the same as a conservative with compassion."

"I also intend to address what I consider to be the

S. Lester Ralph

Massachusetts Issue: the almost total control of government in this state by one party. Viewing similar situations in other nations, we correctly suspect the use of single party government to be unfair, unjust, corrupt and stagnant. Is the situation any different here? All six constitutional offices, from governor to secretary of state controlled by one party; 133 of 160 state representatives and 33 of 40 senators from one party; both United States senators and virtually the entire congressional delegation from one party; and finally almost every city government in the state controlled by one party. I call this political decadence, and it bodes ill for good government in this state.

"I was a member of the Democratic party for most of my life, but I have come to the inescapable conclusion that this group has as its primary goal the retention of power rather than the public interest."

While serving as Mayor of Somerville, that city received the All-American city award for good government, one of 10 cities in the nation to be so honored. Ralph and Paul Tsongas were elected county commissioners together in the aftermath of the Cambridge courthouse scandal, and they initiated reforms which have been the model for county government ever since.

Fun run

This stampede was the scene as the students of the North Intermediate School began a "fun run" on Friday morning, during the school's "Don't Be a Dope" anti-drug day. Each youngster received a painter's hat, and the top 20 runners received t-shirts, reading "Don't Be a Dope."

Educational Update

By Dr. Carol Sager

Wilmington Superintendent of Schools

May has been reading testing time for children in grades one through ten. Given the importance of reading to all learning, the Wilmington School Committee has consistently assigned top priority to the goal of helping each child read with understanding.

Reading tests help us assess how well we are achieving this goal for individual children and for the system as a whole. The reading tests last approximately one hour. Time is not a factor as most children finish the test with ease well before the time limit has expired. The tests consist of two sections, vocabulary and comprehension.

The vocabulary section samples the student's reading vocabulary. In the early grades the emphasis is placed on finding out whether or not children can decode the common words that they will meet over and over again in reading. Children are presented with a picture followed by choices. The youngster is to choose the correct word, e.g. (Picture of a clock) a tick, clock, clack, click.

At the upper grades, the emphasis shifts to word meaning and breadth of vocabulary development. Words are chosen from content area materials as well as from storybooks. Older students are presented with a test word which is followed by five other words. The student is to choose the word that means most nearly the test word.

e.g. Mastery, brace, control, slavery, majority, watchdog, porous, leathers, full of holes, veiled, smelly, liquid.

The comprehension section measures the student's ability to read with understanding. In some tests the reading passage contains blank spaces, and for each blank space a choice of five completions is offered. The student must decide which one of the five completions best conforms to the meaning of the whole passage. Passages become progressively more difficult. In other tests the student reads a passage first, then is presented with questions related to the reading selection and must choose the word or phrase that best answers the question.

e.g. It may take hours for a baby bird to "pip," or break out of its egg. On top of the baby bird's bill is a tiny "tooth" that the bird uses to crack the hard shell. This egg tooth breaks off soon after the bird is hatched.

On the baby bird's bill is a (a) crack, (b) shell, (c) tooth, (d) pip.

All students in grades one through ten take the reading tests except when a child has a special education plan that indicates otherwise.

In the fall members of the Reading Department, working under the capable direction of Mrs. Brenda Squire, meet with the principals and each of the elementary school classroom teachers to share the results of the tests. Test results are used to plan instruction that meets the diagnosed needs of individual students, to alter the curriculum to reemphasize skills that a particular class appears to be having trouble with, or to help teachers establish appropriate grouping for effective instruction.

At the intermediate and high school levels the test results are also utilized to assess individual students' strengths and weaknesses and to provide content area teachers with the type of information on individual students and groups of students that will enable them to select materials geared to the reading levels of those particular youngsters in their classes.

This might seem like a lot of work and it is! However, over the years it has consistently paid off in terms of the improved reading ability of our students.

At all grade levels students are consistently scoring considerably above the National average in both vocabulary and comprehension. This was not always so. In Wilmington improved reading scores have come about as a result of much hard work on the part of reading specialists, classroom teachers, principals, and students. But, you the citizens of Wilmington, must also share in the credit for steadfastly supporting a strong reading program.

Wilmington school notes

Building maintenance concerns highlighted the May 23 meeting of the Wilmington School Committee.

Primary concern was the septic system problem at the Shawsheen School. Hampered by a failing leaching field, the town has been forced to monitor the tank level almost daily, with frequent pumping required. Selectmen Chairman Jim Stewart addressed the school committee requesting that any surplus funds be returned to the town at the end of the fiscal year '83-'84 to help defray the cost of repairs. Earlier in the week the town manager promised residents of the Shawsheen area that the system would be repaired by September barring any unforeseen problems.

Also discussed by school committeeman John Brooks, was the problem of the leaking oil tanks at the high school. Although this problem does not carry the urgency of the Shawsheen problem, it has merited serious concern by both the board of selectmen and the school committee. The school committee's primary concern is with the educational detriment created by these failures since the town government, and not the school committee is responsible for the maintenance of school buildings.

A special guest at the meeting was Representative James Miceli who discussed pending legislation, House Bill 5000. If passed, this bill would call for significant changes in education, expanded two years of kindergarten; a minimum salary for all teachers of $18,000; a five year plan for curriculum revision and improvement; and a commitment to a core curriculum comprising English, mathematics, social studies, science, computer technology and the arts.

Representative Miceli explained that his main concern was to elicit input from his local school committees to give him direction. School committeeman Tony Accardi said that although he thought the bill showed a new commitment by the state to provide quality education, he feared that a decision making center controlled by the state could possibly stifle innovative ideas that originate at the local school committee level.

A new comprehensive work study program was also given approval by the school committee. This program which had been rejected in December, found approval because of the reorganization by social studies department chairman Carl Olson. Olson's important change eliminated the need to hire more personnel to run the program. Olson said that he thought that a one year trial for the program under the realm of the social studies department could reap benefits for many students.

Requirements for proper behavior at graduation were discussed by Assistant Submaster Jack Lunch. School Committeewoman Linda McMenimen, originally brought this matter to the attention of the committee on May 9. McMenimen said she felt students who did not comply with proper decorum at graduation should forfeit their right to have their names read during the exercises. The memorandum presented the school committee said the following: "These incidents are considered inappropriate during graduation ceremonies, blowing bubbles, fireworks, discolored balloons, refusing to stand for march, alcohol, smoking and any other behavior considered disruptive or inappropriate."

On a request by Chairwoman Bridget Zukas, Doug Anderson and Jerry Connolly reported to the committee on Project Enterprise. This program, which deals with the special needs of advanced learners has become a model throughout the state. Anderson and Connolly explained details regarding curriculum and admittance in the program.

The superintendent presented to the school committee a chain of command for early dismissal. This topic, which had been requested by school committeeman Tony Accardi, outlines the order of decision making in emergency situations. The basic order moves from the superintendent to the assistant superintendent to the business manager, then, if needed to the individual principal of the school in which the emergency is present.

New arrival

A long-awaited event took place at Dan and Millie Gillis' place last Friday, when their Apaloosa mare Dolly gave birth to a foal. Dan says that people are welcome to bring their children to see the new arrival, if they can find the place. The Gillises live off Congress Street, near the Wilmington-Burlington line.

letter to the editor

Dear Larz:

The Town Crier front page story "Trump Card not Played" was very informative. I am sure to those who did not attend this most recent fiasco, we have come to call "Special Town Meetings" it sorta shook them up, eh should have!

Actually, this meeting was more like a high stakes poker game, Jokers Wild with a card shark dealing with a stacked deck.

And just guess who picked up all the chips and walked away a BIG winner.

Happy Toyotoland coming to your town real soon.

Cooperation needed

Wilmington has come up with egg on its face again in the effort to build housing for the elderly. The outcome is nothing new — no such housing has been built here since 1957. But the situation is a sad one for the town.

For years, the town sought state funding for additional housing units, but the money always went to larger communities.

Three years ago, the town rejected a $5 million federal housing project, after a battle which left many scars.

Finally, this month Wilmington was awarded a $450,000 state grant for converting the Buzzell School to housing. The only problem is that the Wilmington Housing Authority no longer has control of the building.

This occurred in spite of a $10,000 study of town-owned buildings. That study came up with ideas, but no decisions.

Everyone involved with the housing situation probably has an opinion of who is at fault for the current dilemma. But the real fault lies in a failure of all officials to communicate and cooperate.

If the town is to be successful in winning a grant in the next round of funding, arguments must be put aside. The last thing that state officials want is to be caught in the middle of a local fight over housing.

The situation presents a leadership challenge for town officials. The town should have a unified plan on housing. Boards must take clear, well-understood positions.

The money for housing is available. If the town officials involved want to be able to take credit for a job well-done, they must put aside differences and work toward a common goal. The town needs that housing, and the local officials hold the key.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

What do we do now? For whatever reasons, the voters of Wilmington voted at town meeting to remove control of the Buzzell school from the housing authority. The funding for elderly housing finally came through from the state to the tune of $450,000. The funding is to be used for the Buzzell School for congregate housing for the elderly. If the initial $450,000 is not used at the Buzzell School for congregate housing, two things will happen: (1) the $450,000 will be distributed to another town or towns to be used for elderly housing, and (2) the money in the state's budget to be distributed in Massachusetts towns in the fall will probably not be coming to Wilmington.

My first thought is: "What do we need more, housing for the elderly who have no place to live, or a larger social club for the elderly who do have a place to live?"

It has been made eminently clear that the elderly of this town are divided into two groups. The people who have their own homes and are secure, and the ones who do not (or can no longer afford) their own homes and need help.

I realize that congregate housing is not the most desirable type of living for everyone, but I'm sure we will have no trouble finding applicants who would be more than happy with it. Isn't a bird in the hand worth two in the bush?

I believe that we should return the Buzzell School to the housing authority, accept the $450,000, build congregate housing, and look for future monies from the state for unit housing.

We have just passed $6.5 million for the renovation of the high school, and accepted rezoning for a skating rink for the youth of Wilmington, now it is high time we got badly needed housing for the elderly.

Remember, if you have no interest in the elderly of today and where they reside, tomorrow you will be one of them and most probably will need housing.

Roberta J. Forrest

Dear Larz:

I would greatly appreciate it if you would take the time to publish this letter on behalf of all parents and townspeople who would like to express their sincere "thanks" to the Wilmington High School Band for its part in the Memorial Day ceremonies. The time and effort put forth by this group is always an asset that is somehow inevitably overlooked.

A simple "thank you" from all of us who appreciate the never-ending effort will, hopefully overcome the feeling of ingratitude which the band so often experiences.

All of us should be proud of these young people and the sacrifices they make to add to our enjoyment. Also, we would like to extend gratitude and "thank you" to the people who are always there to help them, no matter what day it is or where. Extreme thanks to Miss Mette, WHS bandmaster, Miss Kalil, elementary band master and Miss Littlefield, West Intermediate staff.

Without the extra effort the parade would not have the home pride, promoted by our children!!!

With grateful thanks to all, Marty and Phyllis LaCava and The Band Booster Parents

JUNE 4, 1984 WILL BE A RED LETTER DAY FOR WILMINGTON

On Monday, June 4 the WILMINGTON TOWN HALL will be relocated to the former Glen Road School. For the first time in modern Wilmington the Town Hall will be in quarters large enough to enable our citizens to conduct their business in a private and confidential manner.

While the Town Hall on Middlesex Avenue had a certain charm and warmth, I feel that all the citizens of Wilmington will be better served by this new facility. The address of your new Town Hall is 121 Glen Road.

In the early fall, perhaps October, I plan to hold an open house to show of your new Town Hall.

Why October? Everyone should be back from vacation by then and all modifications to the building will be complete.

My most sincere thanks to the Board of Selectmen and to Immediate Past Chairman Daniel H. Ballou Jr. and Present Chairman James Stewart for their support and assistance, and also the Town Department Heads and Employees involved in this project.

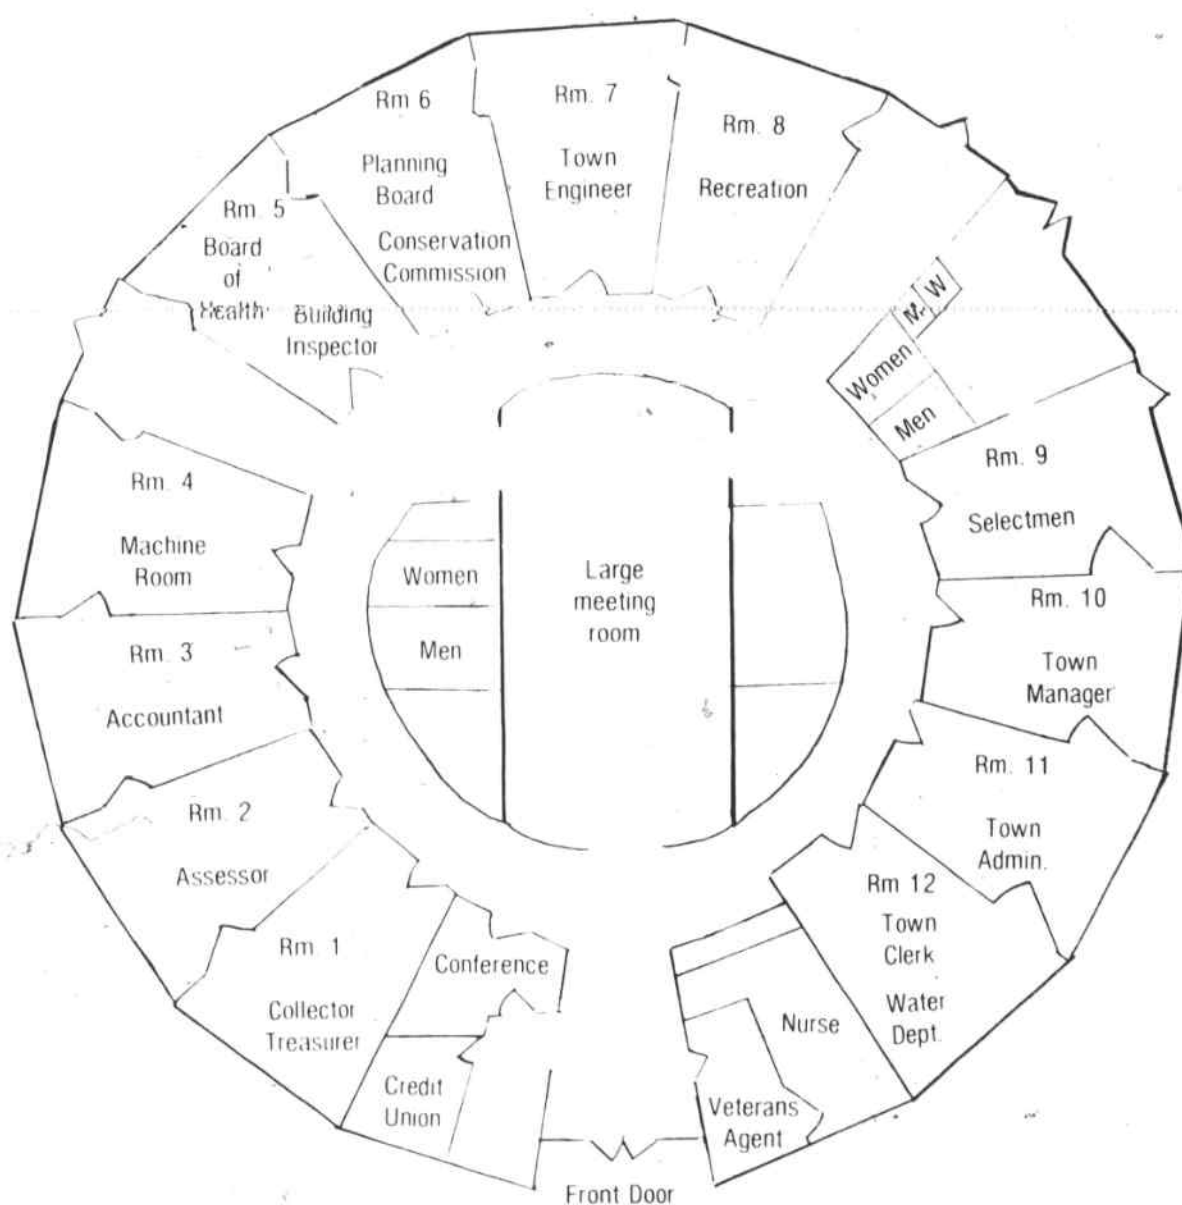

Sincerely,
Reginald S. Stapczynski
Town Manager

Hydrant flushing may affect North Tewksbury water

Water service in North Tewksbury may be affected when Lowell performs hydrant flushing of their water mains in the area on May 30 and 31, according to the Tewksbury Department of Public Works. The Lowell water main flushing will take place during the hours of midnight to 3 a.m.

Because Tewksbury is hooked into the Lowell system at Andover Street and Deadhorse Lane, it is possible, in some instances, that water service will be completely shut off for short periods of time, the DPW reports.

National Laboratory Week, was celebrated recently by Tewksbury Hospital. The hospital lab had a display in the main lobby for all physicians, nurses and hospital employees to visit.

Included in the display were many colorful posters showing interpretations of many laboratory tests. Handouts were also available concerning many aspects of the laboratory and lab tests.

A microscope was made available for a hands-on observation of normal blood smears, urinalysis, microscopies and slides of common bacteria. A screening clinic was set up to perform free ABO and RH blood typing to anyone interested in knowing their blood type.

The laboratory wishes to thank Rover Diag, Glanville, Johnson, Dow B. Hickman, Delta Scientific, B.B.L., Gibro, Abbot, Fisher Johnson, Bristol for all their help in making this celebration a success. A special thanks to superintendent Thomas J. Saunders for his continuing support of employee activities.

Tom Aprile Memorial Tournament

Class of '82 strikes again

Wilmington High School's class of 1982 came up with their second consecutive championship in the annual Tom Aprile Memorial Softball Tournament this past weekend thanks to Rob Santos' eighth inning triple that gave his team an exciting 13-12 victory over the class of '73.

The class of '73 has played in the title contest for the past four seasons and has come up empty each time. The '82 squad toppled the '73 team in last year's championship game.

Tim Quinn, Paul Bova and Santos smacked two hits apiece for the winners, with Jeff Lux and Paula Burns ripping a triple apiece. Rob Irwin came up with a big defensive play at thirdbase to end the game.

Jim McNally, Steve Winston and Ray Noel slapped two hits apiece for the class of '73. Joan Axlerod was the defensive star at secondbase, while catcher Karen Evans was outstanding throughout the tournament.

Paul Bova pitched the win over the '73 combo of Jean Aprile and Mary Ward.

Tournament summary

1982 9 1981 7

Rob Santos spanked three hits and Ernie Peabody two, as Jim Conti chucked the win over Diane Blonigan. Joe Burbine powered a three-run homer for the class of '81. Mike Moran also slammed a homer.

1980 11 1977 3

Gary Hastings, Jim Crowley and Steve Maga rang two hits apiece in support of winning pitcher Diane Doyle. Bob Woods had two hits for the '77 club. Bette Cote was the losing hurler.

1976 16 1974 1

Tiger Cairra and winning pitcher Herb Mason ripped two hits apiece in handing Ken Kumm the defeat. Mike Herra stuck in two hits for the class of '74.

1973 11 1972 10

Jim McNally and Joan Axlerod combined for five hits, as the pitching combo of Jean Aprile and Mary Ward chalked up the victory. Jack Conlin and Rich Lee powered a homer apiece for '72, while Bob Hogg helped the cause with a pair of hits.

1965 17 1967 12

In the game dubbed "the wood tournament," both pitchers (wooden legs) winning pitcher Fred Neilson kept the ball in the park just long enough to allow his offense of Paul Currier (three hits) Ken Sarhione (two hits) and Dennis DeMaggio (two injuries) to get un-tracked.

Losing pitcher Jim Cushing just put too many over the plate. Mark Peters was red-hot for the '67 team with two homers, with one and two runners aboard. Rick Norton sparkled at shortstop, and John Brown, well, John was out in left field.

'Fudgie' Parker outduelled Frank McLaughlin on the mound, getting stick support from Doug Anderson with three hits and Bill Fay and Arnie Aprile with two hits apiece.

Jim Gillis sparked '63 with two hits, while Dick Allard ripped an inside-the-park homer and saw his legs give out over the final 60 feet. Mike Farrell flew in for the game, but most of his teammates felt that Mike should have stayed home.

1982 13 1983 8

Jim Conti pitched the win over Steve Hancox, getting plenty of support from Jeff Lux (three hits) and Paul Bova (three hits, including a homer). Ed Olshaw smashed a homer for the class of '83.

Dick Gillis slapped two hits apiece for the class of '71. Jean Aprile and Mary Ward combined to pitch the win over Terry Gustus.

45-58 10 1965 8

Winning pitcher Sonny Parker knocked in Rocco DePasquale with the tying run in the top of the seventh inning to highlight this victory. 'Scratch' O'Reilly and Doug Anderson helped the winning cause with three hits apiece. Arnie Aprile played an outstanding game in the outfield for the winners.

Dennis Demaggio, Paul Currier and Dave Orndorff had two hits apiece for the class of '65. Unfortunately, Jack Garden made the final out.

'Fudgie' motors

'Fudgie' Parker motors home with a run in his team's Aprile Memorial Tourney victory this past weekend. See story above.

1980 9 1976 7

Scott Richards slammed two homers and Keith MacDonald ripped three hits, as Susan Rowe hurled the win over Herb Mason. Dana Mullarky powered a homer for the '76 club. Bob Aprile helped the cause with two hits.

1982 10 1980 5

Winning hurler Jim Conti, Rob Irwin and Ernie Peabody had two hits apiece for the winners, while the 1980 club was sparked by Gary Hastings, Jim Crowley and Dan Burbine with two safeties apiece.

1973 11 1971 6

Chico Campbell and Rich Peters had two hits apiece to spark the winning attack. Snokey Lynch, Bill Gustus and

Just warming up

Mike Cairra ('67) anticipates this warm up catch rather happily in Aprile Memorial Tournament action. Wilmington High School's classes squaged off in another fun weekend of softball in what has become an annual event.

Third tourney appearance

Tewksbury seniors want more

If the Tewksbury High School softball seniors have a goal in mind as they head into their third Eastern Mass. Tournament appearance in three years, it's to get past the first game.

For the past two springs coach Donna Tanner has seen her talented team go down to one run defeats against Revere and Woburn in the opening game. For a senior group dotted with all-stars it will be their final opportunity to shake those first game jitters when the tournament pairings are announced Thursday night.

Leading the Redmen to an 11-3 slate in the Small School Division of the Merrimack Valley Conference were senior all-stars Missy Riddle (catcher, .537), Laura Briggs (centerfield, .446) and pitcher Linda Barry (.13-3).

Senior firstbaseman Vicki Westover earned league honorable mention honors with .435 season. Riddle lead the team in runs scored and singles while Briggs mashed five homeruns. Both Riddle and Briggs are also excellent defensive players.

A key player in tourney competition could be relief pitcher Lori Zotto who came up with three saves and a victory this spring.

Rounding out this talented Tewksbury lineup are senior thirdbaseman Heather Coyle (.352), shortstop Wendy Gosselin (.373), senior rightfielder Sandy Hennessy (.366), leftfielder Dee Dee Lamport (.286), secondbaseman Bonnie Staniewicz (.390) and talented reserves Cheryl Tassinari (.375), Karen Hennessy (.333), Sue Downey, Chris Kearns, Lyn Ploof and Moe Scott (.390).

TMHS girls' track

Tewksbury rolls to super season

The Tewksbury High School girls' track team continued to roll last week, as they defeated Wilmington, 88-29. The win was Tewksbury's seventh of the season against only one defeat.

As she has done throughout her three year career at TMHS, Beverly Loken led the way with three solid victories. She won the long jump with a 15'9" leap and the 100 dash in 12.1. Then the highly talented and versatile senior turned on the jets in the 440 to blaze to a 59.4 time - the fastest 440 ever run at Tewksbury High and one of the fastest run in the state this year.

Kathy Weisensee also had a good day, leaping 5' in the high jump, just one inch short of the school record and outrunning a tough field in the mile run to take first in 5:35.

Freshman Nancy Menezes once again showed her tremendous potential by taking first in the discus with a 107'9" throw and the shot put with a 31'7" push. Nancy's efforts in these events already place her near the top of the Merrimack Valley Conference.

Chris Silk ran a strong race in the 880 to win the event in 2:37. She was followed by sophomore Peggy Forsyth who ran a 2:40, proving she is becoming a stronger distance runner all the time.

Renee Juchnevics, also a sophomore, turned in a quite unusual and very remarkable double. First she endured the heat to grind her way to a third place finish in the two mile.

Rangers 7 Angels 5

Solid hits by John Soule and homeruns by Dennis Godin and David Dussault along with good catching by Ricky Bouche helped the cause. Good fielding by Robbie Montiero and the relief pitching of Dennis Godin kept the Rangers in the lead the entire game. Angels' Herb Mason and Chris Kelly were solid defensively.

Brewers 10 Angels 5

Angel Randy Johnson had a homerun and a base hit. Chris Corby was on base twice and Chris Farino played fine defensively in the outfield. Joey Scito played well at shortstop.

Mariners 13 Brewers 3

For the Mariners, there were homeruns by David Fleming, Tom Zaya, Robbie Smith and Domenic Darielli. Good hitting by Chris Adams and fine fielding by Brenda Rogers, Pat Kelly and John Lipski helped in the win. For the Brewers, Robert Beals pitched well.

Royals 13 Blue Jays 7

Keith Sandberg's grand slam homerun led the Royals to a 13-7 victory over the Brewers. Sandberg, along with Todd Dennis, also turned in a good pitching effort. There was some timely hitting by Mike Fournier and Gary Danehy. Contributing for the Blue Jays with some very good pitching was Kevin McArthur, Matt Carraso and Pat Rooney.

Softball

Sluggers 8 Rockets 6

Good defense and solid pitching improved the Sluggers' record to 6-2.

Lori Cormier, Michele Stanchi, Ginny Cosgrove and Ann-Marie Andersen led the defense. A triple by Anderson and a double by Michele Cormier led the hitting attack. For the Rockets, Kellie Sullivan and Jennifer O'Donnell played fine games.

Red Barons 12
Green Machine 10

Diane Curtis pitched the win with relief help from Denise Curran. Timely hitting was provided by Alyssa and Kara Georgelis, Heidi Fields and Toby Kenney. Heather Fullerton and Kim Russo made fine defensive plays. Kris Cavanaugh hit a homerun for the Green Machine and Margie Regis had two hits.

Red Barons 12 Sluggers 6

The bats of Diane Curtis, Denise Curran, Stephanie Carter and Noel Bouchie provided most of the offense for the Red Barons. Jennifer Bowen hurled the win over the Sluggers, striking out eight opposing batters. Heather Fullerton and Kara Georgelis played well defensively for the winners.

Kneesocks 3 Warriors 1

Jackie Gray pitched a good game and the defense was led by Stacey Murphy and Bonnie Trout.

Major Leagues

White Sox 4 Red Sox 2

Mark Lee pitched four strong innings and smashed a key double, driving in two runs, as the White Sox defeated the Red Sox in a rain-soaked game. Matt Callahan pitched three solid innings for the Red Sox and Steve Edmonds and Mike George led the Red Sox attack. Bobby Surran and Dennis Walsh played super defensive games.

White Sox 5 Twins 1

Sean DeMaggio and Dennis Walsh for the White Sox and Paul Welch and David DiCenso for the Twins all pitched well, as they combined for 16 strikeouts in this see-saw contest.

Steve Killiea and Sean DeMaggio led the White Sox attack, while Jamie Robichaud and John Ciarmaglia had hot bats for the Twins.

Scott Tuxbury and Phil Fenton played well defensively for the White Sox, while the Twins defense was led by Jim Ware, Ryan Collins and Joey Mahoney.

Tigers 7 Orioles 1

The Tigers rode the one hit, 12 strikeout pitching performance of Andy Parr to victory. George Driscoll in centerfield made a terrific diving attempt to preserve the team's no-hitter. The hitting support came from the bats of Driscoll, Joe Piazza and Brian MacDonald.

Mark Bobek got the only hit for the Orioles and Derek Stokes, heads-up base running scored the lone run. Eric Richards pitched well in relief.

White Sox 13 Red Sox 10

In a team effort, the White Sox, led by the pitching of Sean DeMaggio and Dennis Walsh and the hitting of Steve Killiea, Mark Lee and Kevin Fields scored the win. The defense of Steve Killiea assisted the defeat of the Red Sox in a well played game.

The Red Sox' offense was led by Steve Edmonds, who crushed four hits. Matt Callahan, Mike O'Brien, and Mark LaCava. Sean McNamara and Mike Burns played well defensively.

Yankees 10 Twins 9

Greg Smith, George Melitse and Eric Engdahl pitched a good game for the Yankees. For the Twins Jason Stevenson, Dave Dicenso and Paul Welch, all pitched well.

Leading the hit parade for the Yankees were Greg Smith, Ryan Churchill, Frank Cenca, Jimmy Mederios and Scot McMillan.

For the Twins, Billy Finnelly, Dave DiCenso, Jamie Robichaud, Joe Mahoney, Jimmy Russo and Paul Welch contributed.

Defensively, Jimmy Mederios for the Yankees and Jimmy Ware for the Twins made fine plays.

TMHS boys' track

Redmen tracksters topple Wildcats

The TMHS boys' varsity track and field team concluded its regular dual meet season Wednesday with an impressive 91-53 1/2 victory over an equally impressive Wilmington squad. Both Tewksbury and Wilmington are loaded with fine young talent and look forward to the next few years to battle frequently for the top spot in the Small School Division.

The Redmen, in willing 11 out of 17 events, had three double winners. Senior captain Kent Appleby took a third in the javelin and won both the 120 yard high hurdles and the 330 yard low hurdles, both in State Meet qualifying times. Sophomore weightman Doug Noyes continued to impress as he won the shot put and the discus. Sophomore Mark Cristoffels continued to rank among the top three jumpers in the league as he won both the long jump and the triple.

High jumper Jim Field made a clutch jump at 5'8" to win the event, and was a member of the victorious 440 yard relay squad along with Pat Sands, Jim Evangelista, and speedster freshmen Kenn Coviello. Coviello's speed was never more evident that it was in the 440 yard relay as he came from five yards behind to easily defeat his opponent on the anchor leg of the relay.

Coviello was also a standout in the 100 yard dash, as he defeated Paul Caizzi of Wilmington in a tough race with a 10.6 time. Distance ace and junior captain Steven Murphy continued to show signs of a good forthcoming state meet mile run, as he handily won the event in 4:49.0. Sophomore 880 yard man Ed Piscopo gained a measure of revenge in his race as he defeated Wilmington ace sophomore Frank Dinsmore in a fine 2:05.0 time. Dinsmore had come from behind to defeat Piscopo in the Northern Area Freshmen - Sophomore Meet held in Wilmington recently.

The results

High jump, 1st, Field, T., 5'8", 2nd, Cripasuk, W., 5'6", 3rd, Weitz, T., 5'2"; long jump, 1st, Cristoffels, T., 18' 9", 2nd, Caizzi, W., 18' 2", 3rd, Coviello, T., 17' 11"; shot put, 1st, Noyes, T., 37' 7", 2nd, Morniewicz, T., 36' 2", 3rd, McHardy, T., 34' 8"; javelin, 1st, Cutone, W., 152' 1", 2nd, Athanasia, W., 142' 1", 3rd, Appleby, T., 137' 4"; pole vault, 1st, Baldwin, W., 9' 6", 2nd, Martyn, W., 8' 0", 3rd, Rotondo, W., 8' 0"; triple jump, 1st, Cristoffels, T., 40' 8", 2nd, Kresein, T., 33' 8", 3rd, Pote, W., 33' 4".

Tewksbury Youth Soccer

Astros nip Cougars, 2-1

Astros 2 Cougars 1

Forward Ricky Kilian scored both goals for the Astros, with fine defensive play provided by Sharon Jones, Keith Weber and halfback Richard Kim. Super offensive play by Steve Field. The Cougars' goal came off the foot of Jeff Snoman, with an assist by Annmarie Silva. Jeff Araujo, Jason Araujo and Todd Mathus all turned in outstanding performances.

Falcons 3 Spartans 0

The first goal was scored by a high looping kick by Richard Treem on a pass by Jimmy Williams. Robert Stanley scored two goals on passes from Keith Nolan and Andy Flanagan. Goalkeepers Keith Nolan and Shawn Moorehouse shared shutout duties. Good offensive effort by the Spartans' Robbie Bjorkgren and Kerry Mollander and excellent defense by Sean Corrigan. Good all-around play by Bridget Merrill and Brei Deveau made it an exciting game.

Dynamos 2 Clippers 1

John Tempia scored for the Clippers, with superb play by halfbacks Joe Stevens, Tracy Tempia and David Russell. Jean Quigley anchored the defense in this hotly contested match.

Later, she took off from the competition in the 220 and won the race with a time of 28.9. It's a credit to Renee's versatility that she was able to do what few track athletes are able or willing to accomplish: place in a distance event and win a sprinting event.

Other outstanding performances in the meet were turned in by Fran Mulrain, who ran a time of 63.944 to take second place behind Lukens' spectacular run. Pia Romano and Eileen Griffin with seconds in the discus and javelin. Tracy Meehan, who took second in the 100 meter hurdles, Jennifer Rogers, who showed she is becoming a fine sprinter by placing second behind Lukens in the 100, Amy DiGiorgio, who proved that hard work and dedication pay off by running her best time in the hurdles for third place and turning in a time of 44.0 in the mile relay to help the team with that event. Anne Dougherty, who led off the victorious 440 relay team and took third in the 220, Jill Hallisey who leaped well enough to get third in the long jump and ran a strong leg in the 440 relay, and finally Julie Bernardi, a hard working and dedicated senior who took on the tough assignment of running the two mile in the oppressive heat and even though it was her first try in that event, got second place.

June later came back in the mile relay to run her best time of the season in the 440 to get the team off to a good start.

As the season draws to a close, the TMHS girls can look back at some outstanding performances and some truly impressive victories. For the first time in the history of the school, the Tewksbury girls track team beat Andover, Billerica, Haverhill and Lowell. Several of the athletes turned in the best performances in the conference, and the entire team showed the kind of spirit and dedication to improvement that is characteristic of a team that is a championship contender. Although they are in second place in the MVC at the moment, in the eyes of their coaches and of everyone who has seen them compete, they are a first rate team.

Sports editor's note: This report was submitted by TMHS girls track coach Bob MacDougall.

TMHS awards

Tewksbury Memorial High School's Annual Athletic Awards Banquet will be held Monday night, June 4 starting at 7 p.m. at the Elks Hall. Coaches will present awards for each sport following the meal.

Wilmington senior topics

Council meets June 1

Monday, June 4, the Council on Aging meeting will be held at the Drop In Center beginning at 1:30 p.m. The best way to know what is being discussed at the meeting is to be there. It is better to get information first hand than from someone else.

Kelley Homemakers

Joan Joyce of Kelley Homemakers will be at the Center Wednesday, May 30 from 9 a.m. to noon to interview persons interested in being homemakers for the elderly.

Exercise class

The exercise class of May 30 will be held at the Regional Health Center. The instructor has planned the nature walk at the Regional for that day if weather permits, if not it will be held at the Drop In Center. Those who would like to join the class at any time, should just go to the Center and sign up. The price is $1.00 to help defray the cost of the class.

Hearing aid consultant

Fred, the hearing aid consultant will be at the Drop In Center Friday morning, June 1 from 10 to noon. He will be checking seniors' hearing ability and hearing aids for proficiency.

June social

The June therapeutic social will be closed out on Thursday, June 6. After that day names will have to be placed on a waiting list.

Fourth celebration

This year the 4th of July Committee has set a day in the Fourth of July celebration week for seniors. It is hoped that many seniors will take part. The dancers are already putting together a short demonstration. The arts and crafts women are working hard on articles which will be sold or put on chances on that day. Any senior who would like to take part in these programs should merely show up at the Center.

Senator Paul Tsongas

A letter has been received from Senator Paul Tsongas, thanking Mrs. Cunningham for contacting him in regard to the proposed five percent surcharge on credit card transactions. He said that he voted last year to ban the surcharge until May 31, 1984 giving more time for the committee to study the issues involved in the surcharge. He was pleased to say that the House extended the ban for another year.

looking at it as a health problem. She read from a Presidential order, dated 1980, quoting that no safe threshold of exposure exists.

After several complaints that the health director was either unavailable or ineffective, selectman Dan Ballou said they maybe should require that he live in town. As for the companies, he said, it was time to start fining them.

Rocco DePasquale suggested that when people come in with complaints, that managers or high officials of the companies be called in to answer the complaints directly. "Create the inconvenience for them that their odors create for the people," he said. He urged that follow up letters be sent to state and federal authorities, naming companies, and that accurate records be kept on each complaint and each company.

Robert Jepson also complained of Analog unloading liquid nitrogen at strange hours. At 11 o'clock at night, you hear the pumps," he said, "and on Sunday morning, when you're trying to catch a few winks."

Robert Lewis complained of inaction on the town's part. "You can fine a person who doesn't license a dog," he said, "but you can't fine a company."

The town manager said he didn't know if the town had a by-law for odors.

Lewis said that there was such a by-law, and that he had written it himself. He echoed complaints about the health director not doing his job.

Chief of Police Bobby Stewart said that the state DEQE seemed to be dropping the ball. He said that his deputy had called the DEQE to report complaints, and that his call was never returned.

"The people in power don't think of us as human beings," said Tina Prentiss. She said the odors were bad enough to wake a person out of a sound sleep. The odors are ruining our lungs, livers and stomachs," she said.

She then said, facetiously, "Thank you for those red, white and blue Pepsi trucks!" which she said go by the house all day long. "At least it isn't chemicals."

Judy Duggan said that the town had the powers it needed, right in the zoning by-law. "I carry my zoning by-law around and read it during lunch," she said. She read a list of prohibited uses in all zones, which included any use creating odors. She then read a section saying it was up to the building inspector to enforce it.

She went on to say that she works for a large chemical company in another town. What the town does, she said, has a tremendous influence on what the state will do. "The state is on our backs all the time because of what the town does," she said.

Lewis said he would like to have the town get lists of chemicals used by each of the companies. The town manager said such information was required under the "right to know" law passed last year, but that the rules and regulations were still being promulgated. That type of information would soon be available, he said.

Lewis asked that a citizens' task force be created to help deal with the problem. A motion by Rocco DePasquale passed unanimously.

Wilmington police news

After investigating complaints regarding drinkers on West Street extension on Tuesday, May 22, Sargent Robert Vassallo arrested Joseph Dow of Reading. He was charged with being a minor in possession of alcohol and with public drinking.

Officer Chris Neville arrested a Reading man early Wednesday morning after chasing him on a motorcycle into North Reading. James F. Karl, 19, was charged with operating without a proper license, speeding and failing to stop on signal from a police officer. He was bailed for a later court appearance.

Early Thursday morning George DeVean, 19, of Baldwin Road was arrested and charged with discharging a firearm, disorderly conduct, and possession of a dangerous weapon. He was later arraigned at Woburn District Court. The arrest was made by officers Hancock, Peterson and King.

A local man was arrested Friday evening on drug charges by Officer Mark Jepson. Edgar Case, 22, was arrested at the North Wilmington parking lot and charged with the possession of marijuana. He was bailed for a later court appearance.

Lorens Dunnett, 21, of Taphn Avenue was arrested early Saturday morning by Officer David McTee, assisted by Officers McNally, Hancock and Neville. Dunnett was charged with operating under the influence of liquor and operating without a valid operators license.

After a chase from Woburn and on Concord Street and Federal Street, Officer Jim McNally arrested a Tewksbury man on multiple motor vehicle offenses, early Saturday morning. Harold Guilfré, 19, of Elm Street, Tewksbury was charged with speeding, failure to keep right, leaving the scene of a property damage accident, refusal to stop, operating without a license, and operating an unregistered, uninsured motorcycle. He was later bailed for a Tuesday court appearance.

A Lawrence man was arrested on an Andover default warrant on Saturday morning. Eric Jensen, 25, of Lawrence was turned over to the Andover Police Department.

Police responded to 30 alarms during the past week. There were three cases of break and entry, 11 disturbances and seven arrests. There were three cases of larceny reported, one call for medical assistance, six reports of suspicious activity, three trespassing complaints, six trailbike complaints, three traffic complaints and five cases of vandalism. There was one report of larceny of gasoline.

Liberty Pole capping Sunday

The Wilmington Minutemen will be erecting their thirteenth Liberty Pole in defiance of King George on Sunday, June 3. Townstolk will gather at the common at 2 p.m. to watch Minutemen from neighboring towns join the local militia unit place a wreath on the monument at the point of the common. From there they will parade to Rotary Park and raise their Liberty Pole where a Redcoat patrol is expected. Some hot heads in the group have promised trouble if the Redcoats try to take the pole down.

The Wilmington Minutemen have suffered some casualties at life and are looking for a few good musket men. Any male over the age of 18, with a strong patriotic bent, is invited to speak to the recruiting corporal on Sunday. The hours are long, the pay is nil and a man must outfit himself with musket, ball and powder and suitable clothing or uniform, but the reward is knowing that your farms and livestock will be safe from the king and marauding Indians and your family will live in liberty.

How about "Color Analysis"

By JUDITH TORKILDSEN

Keying into what brings out the best in a person's looks has never been a simple task down through the centuries.

Clothing styles, hair styles, even lifestyles, as well as make-up, jewelry, and more have all played a part in what experts have defined as important to putting one's best foot forward.

The '70s and '80s have seen movements of their own to help individuals define those "key" elements, whether it be attaining beauty through fitness, or dressing to project the "right" image, one of success.

And then there's color.

Today, an increasing number of people are finding their best looks are wrapped up in wearing the right colors for them.

The process, known as color analysis, generally works either by the spring, summer, fall or winter system (as set forth in the book "Color Me Beautiful") or by the Color Number 1 system, according to Sandra Merrill, who performs color analysis out of her home in Lexington.

According to Merrill, both systems determine what the right colors for an individual are by "looking at the subtlety of color in the person's skin, hair and eyes and then coordinating colors that most complement and coordinate with the person's natural coloring."

Merrill, 30, says the concept is believed to have been introduced by Susan Caygill, a woman from the San Francisco area who wrote the book "Color, The Essence of You" about 35 years ago. But it wasn't until the past four years, Merrill said, that people started putting those concepts into action in the way of studios for color analysis. The 1980 publication of "Color Me Beautiful" only added to the already growing interest in color analysis.

Merrill, who's been involved in color analysis since her graduation with a degree in health education in the early '70s, says she helped form "Keys to Vogue" in 1980 on the West Coast, one of the first color analysis companies.

Now in a new business, Merrill says she and partner Brenda Hassenfeld offer a three-part program that uses color analysis as just one segment. Merrill says that while her business focuses around the concept of color and using it properly, the means they use to determine is uniquely their own.

Merrill says their analysis is determined to a large degree by "physics," how the energy of certain colors mesh with the person's own energy.

Aside from the color analysis, Merrill says the other two stages involve helping the client eliminate those things from their existing wardrobe not appropriate for them and then shopping with the client to aid them in selecting new items just right for them.

Merrill says over 400 clients have used their services during the past year and they work with about 16 clients at a given time.

Susan Spang, 26, who runs the Studio of Color on Main Street in Reading, officially opened her doors two months ago and says the response has been good.

While Spang offers a program different in many aspects to that of Merrill, the basic thrust is similar — it centers around color and what it can and can't do for the individual.

Spang says the color analysis she uses is similar to the concept set forth in "Color Me Beautiful," with a few exceptions.

"In the book, the author says only winters can wear black," Spang says. "I test everyone for black. And she says winters can wear white all the time. I say only when they're well rested can winters wear white."

Like Merrill and Hassenfeld, Spang says she also gets into fabrics and what they do and don't do for certain seasons or types.

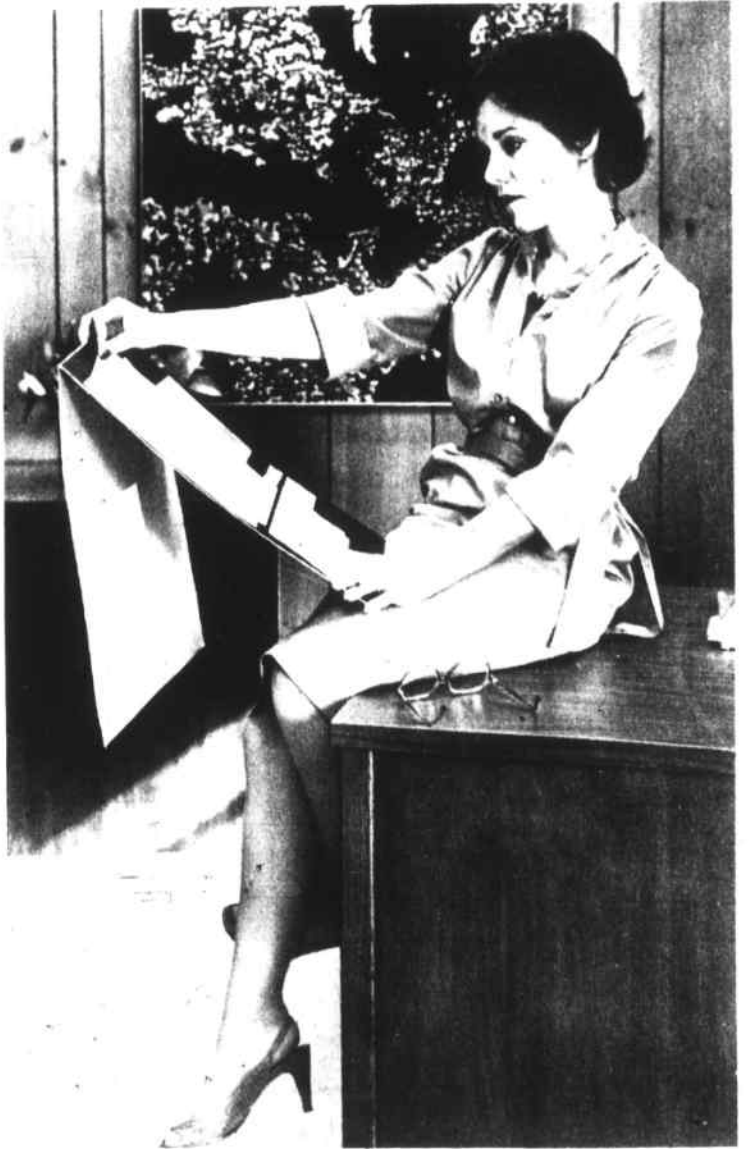

"Each season can wear certain fabrics," Spang said.

Spang says her consultation usually lasts about two hours and involves things such as color draping (fabrics are draped around the person's face to see which ones suit them) and studying the client's hair, eye color and skin tone in-depth.

In both programs, clients are presented with swatches of about 30 colors of the shades or hues of color that go with their season.

Both Merrill and Spang say their clientele range from housewife to student to business executive. Also, men as well as women are getting color analysis.

Tricia Griffin, 31, said she heard about Merrill's service through a friend and found out she TRICIA GRIFFIN says before she invested in color analysis, there were days when she'd put on a suit and feel "drab and not very confident." But after she learned which colors and styles suited her, she said, "I was totally shocked. I was buying all the wrong things."

ROVING

Dan Ferullo

The other night I happened to be dining out at a restaurant inside a nearby rather plush hotel. As I dipped my fork into a plate of soft white fettucini noodles, I noticed two middle-aged women seated at the table opposite me curiously eyeing something on or around the buffet table a few feet from the dining area.

My eyes automatically followed theirs, but I was darned if I could spot what it was that had captured their attention. I glanced back at the two women. They had leaned toward each other, in sort of a huddle, whispering and occasionally giggling as they continued to check out this one particular section of the buffet table. In front of the two women, dirty silverware rested on the remains of a salad and what appeared to be a quiche or an omelette of some kind.

I was with a friend, who was beginning to regard me oddly. "What are you looking at?" He spoke as he sucked in a huge leafy piece of oily romaine, then chomping on it in a manner reminiscent of John Belushi in "Animal House."

I didn't answer him, instead darting my line of sight back at those two women again, trying to be inconspicuous. "You should eat more slowly," I said to my friend in the meantime. "You can choke real easy on that stuff."

Acting obviously, my friend continued to shovel away, this time on little green hot peppers, holding them by their tiny stems and ripping them off at the bottom with a single swift munch. Somehow he managed to speak and do that at the same time. "You still haven't told me what you're looking at. Can I turn around and look?"

"No," I firmly declared. "They'll think we're being rude and staring at them."

My friend stabbed a chunk of tomato that was covered with

There were five winners in the Baseball Card Contest presented here last week. And if it weren't for Ralph Houk, (He was one of the tricky one's No. 18), there probably would have been 25.

Houk was not the only one that caused problems. Many people called Sam Jethro of the Old Boston Braves Hank Aaron. Many others had difficulty with Rico Petrocelli (No. 23). Others that kept causing difficulty were Carroll Hardy (No. 19) Bill Mombouquette (21) and Walt Dropo (22).

We were amazed at the reader interest created and the numbers of returns, several hundred. We were also amazed that just about every entry had twenty or more correct ID's. Most of the authorities on staff were in the 12 to 15 range.

Some of the ones we thought would be difficult (A young Mickey Mantle) for example stumped very few. Haywood Sullivan, present boss of the Red Sox, was another that almost everybody had on their list. Johnny Pesky and Bobby Doerr were others that were almost universally identified.

Originally we stated that the earliest post mark would win the $25.00 Gift Certificate but because of the response, all five winners will be awarded certificates. They will be sent in the mail.

The five winners are as follows:

Gerry O'Reilly

Richard DeMarco
157 Vane St.

Gordon Hayward

Frank Figucia

We appreciate all the readers that took the time to respond to the contest, it was a great deal of fun. We also would like to thank Bill Covello of Bill's Place for supplying us with the cards.

creamy Italian dressing and shoved it into his mouth. "Well, you are staring," he mumbled.

"You shouldn't talk with your mouth full, and no, I'm making a very inconspicuous observation."

I curled another bunch of fettucini noodles around the end of my fork, while continuing to keep an eye on the two women as they bantered over something to do with the buffet table. I finally decided it wasn't worth wondering over any further, and turned my full attention back to my friend and asked him what he thought of those Detroit Tigers.

He made some remark about the Red Sox being one of only two or three teams to beat the Tigers so far this season, just as the two women got up from their table and ambled over to the buffet table.

I said, "Yeah, isn't it just like the Sox to beat the best and lose to all the rest," as my mind wandered back to what the two women were about to do over at the buffet table.

My friend was able to quickly pick up on my rambling train of thought, even though he was leached over a large slice of prime rib with knife and fork in his hands, ready to dig in. He let his arms fall to the edge of the table. "Look, I'm turning around and getting a gander at what's got you in outer space for myself."

He glimpsed around, but whipped right back to his beef, by no means surprised.

"I told you it was nothing," I said.

"No, you didn't."

"Well then, you should've

figured that out when I didn't say anything."

My friend took a bite of meat, savoring its juicy flavor, not in the least bit fazed over whether I had, or had not, informed him. When he'd swallowed, he said, "I think the chef accidentally used one-fifty-one rum in that fettucini sauce, because you're acting real weird tonight. Do you usually come to restaurants and stare at a table full of food when you've got an entire meal in front of you?"

The two women milled around the buffet table, from time to time glancing behind themselves as if they were about to steal everything in sight. Then they moved over to a section of the table that displayed all the colorful fruit, syrup, whipped cream and nut toppings for the make-it-yourself ice cream sundae dessert. The two women were now just a couple of feet away from my table.

By now my friend was ready to move to another table. "I don't know what it is about these two ladies you like, but the heavy one on the right reminds me of my godmother. So if you're planning to ask them to join us, forget it."

My friend totally had the wrong idea. I just wanted to know why these two women were behaving so suspiciously. I perked open an ear, just in case they delivered a clue as to why they were hanging around the buffet table.

Then one of them started toying with the handle to the ice cream machine, the kind that makes ice cream that resembles Dairy Queen's ice cream. That was when the whole mystery became perfectly clear to me. They were arguing in a friendly sort of way over whether or not to have a sundae.

The one who reminded my friend of his godmother said to the other one, "Well, then, how about if we settle for just a cone. Not as many calories in a cone."

Her friend seemed unwilling to settle for just a cone. She came back with, "But we never go crazy." She nudged her friend on the elbow. "Come on, let's go crazy."

Yeah, I thought, you can afford to go crazy. You're not the fat one.

The heavier set woman thought for a second, giving the toppings another once-over. "O.K.," she finally agreed. "Let's go crazy. Who cares? I'll go back on my diet tomorrow."

They picked up two dishes. The first woman positioned hers beneath the handle to the ice cream machine and pulled, releasing a thick stream of white ice cream. Then it was the heavy set woman's turn to fill her dish. They both looked at each other and then anxiously around them.

"I hope no one's watching us," the first one said, giggling like a sixteen-year-old out on her first prom as she started plopping on the toppings. "They'll think we're making pigs of ourselves."

The second woman giggled back, agreeing as she went to town on the toppings. They both overlooked absolutely nothing.

"I feel so guilty," the first one said, dropping a couple of strawberries on top of a huge mound of whipped cream, which sat atop a pile of nuts, which were sprinkled liberally over a heap of dripping chocolate syrup.

"Me, too," her friend agreed again.

With the sundaes carefully balanced in their hands, the two women returned to their table. They pushed aside the leftovers from the main course, making plenty of room for the dishes containing their art-deco desserts. Eagerly they eyed them before destroying them with their spoons. The two women seemed like high school girls again, tickled pink that they were getting away with something they shouldn't be doing.

As for me, I got to finish my fettucini, and my friend got to finish expressing his opinion on the Detroit Tigers versus the Boston Red Sox this summer.

was wearing the "worst imaginable types" of clothing for her complexion.

"I would go for style versus color and versus what looked good on me," she said. Griffin, who is director of International Sales with the Roger Reed Wax Co. in Reading said there were days (before she had color analysis done) "when I'd put on a suit and feel drab and not very confident."

After her sessions with Merrill and Hassenfeld, Griffin said she went shopping with her swatches and found out "it works, it's incredible."

"I was totally shocked," she said. Before, Griffin added, "I was buying all the wrong things."

Twenty-five-year-old Sandy Guttadauro, of Wakefield, who said she heard about Spang's studio through a friend, said she'd read about color analysis in several women's magazines before looking into it for herself.

Guttadauro, a secretary with Maurice H. Saval Insurance in Boston, said she decided to go for the analysis because, "I never had a knack as far as coordinating colors goes."

Guttadauro said that since her session in color analysis, "I've gone out and people will say, 'That color looks good on you.' But the greatest advantage, she confides, is "Shopping is much easier."

Outsmarting The Bear.

When the bear's loose on Wall Street, large investors may worry. The bear is mean. But he can be outsmarted. Just join the Payroll Savings Plan and buy U.S. Savings Bonds. Bonds have a variable interest rate combined with a guaranteed minimum.

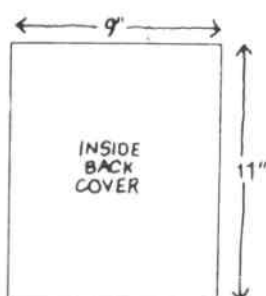

That means you get higher returns in a bull market and protection in a bear market. And that's a smart move.

ART GUILD

Lynnfield Art Guild Members, under the direction of John Morse and Phil Perkins, are busy readying what promises to be a gala celebration of the Guild's twentieth year. Several Charter Members are still active in the organization, including its founder, Helen Malcolm. Euleta Johnson, Dorothy Wilson, Alberta Shute, Barbara Barton, Gladys Rockhill, Jean Laier, Philip Perkins, June Thompson, Bill Thompson fill out the list.

Events of the day will include a judged exhibit of paintings, crafts and a new category, photography, which will broaden the spectrum of this year's show.

A feature display of paintings done by Charter Members of the Guild will be enhanced by floral arrangements especially created by the Flower Workshop and Lynnfield Center Garden Club to compliment the works. Members of the Guild will also have individual exhibits to show and sell their own paintings and crafts.

Demonstrations of painting, crafts, and puppetry, music, visits by dignitaries, and a special feature "Meet Your Favorite Artists" will add to the day's festivities. "Celebrate With Us" promises to be a colorful and rewarding experience. Children are particularly welcome and will be encouraged to try their hands at various methods of artistic expression. Admission is free and the event will be held rain or shine.

ACUPUNCTURE AND PAIN

Acupuncture is a method of healing the body that originated in China approximately 3,000 years ago. It is a natural healing therapy in that it works to create a balance in the body's function. There are no drugs used and consequently no side effects. The body is brought back to a state of health from which point the individual can maintain his health. The acupuncture needles are very fine and therefore relatively painless.

A Free Lecture and Demonstration on Acupuncture and Its Treatment of Pain will be held at the Stoneham Medical and Diabetes Clinic, 106 Main Street, Stoneham, Ma. on Tuesday, June 5 at 7:30 P.M. Reservations are necessary. For reservations and/or information call 438-6132.

SUMMER SCHOOL

The Wakefield Elementary Summer School is introducing two new programs this summer. One is for students who plan to enter kindergarten in September. The second program is designed for students who have completed kindergarten and will enter the first grade this coming September.

The Pre-Kindergarten program is going to be geared specifically for children getting ready to enter the public school system for the first time. The goal is to make the transition of leaving home and entering an educational setting as easy as possible for the children.

The activities the children will be involved with are designed to help their development through outside climbing equipment, building with large hollow blocks, riding tricycles (cartis too), working with clay, finger paints, crayons, dramatic play, stories, songs and "show and tell."

The parents who enroll their children in the pre-kindergarten program will also have an opportunity to come and visit in the classroom one day a week. This will give the parents an opportunity to observe first hand their child's ability to perform in a classroom situation and to see for themselves the progress made over the five week program.

The Pre-First program is designed to aid in the transition from kindergarten to first grade. The program will offer enjoyable activities geared to enhance the children's competency in the areas of reading readiness, math readiness and language development. The program will stress the development skills and work habits necessary to a successful first grade experience.

The Summer School is scheduled to open on Thursday, June 28th and will run through Friday, August 3rd. The hours are 8:45 A.M. to 11:45 A.M. Monday through Friday. Summer School will be held at the Franklin School. For further information on either of these two new programs contact Jim Boyd, Summer School Director, Franklin School, 100 Nahant Street, Wakefield, Ma., 246-0631. The programs are open to both Wakefield residents and children living outside of Wakefield.

BOVINES BACK

Raise your milk glasses in a toast to the 350th anniversary of the Nation's oldest cow pasture. It was in 1634 that the Boston Common was first set aside for grazing. History repeats itself Saturday, June 2, through Friday, June 8, when the 29th annual Boston Common June Dairy Festival rolls into the Hub to celebrate June Dairy Month.

Located by the visitors' booth on the Tremont Street side of the Common, the Boston Common June Dairy Festival is an action-packed exhibit sponsored by the dairy farmers of New England. It's fun for all at the Celebrity Cow Milking Contests every weekday at noon. Monday features the International Milk-Off: the U.S. Navy, Coast Guard, and Air Force lock horns with foreign sailors from the Tall Ships. On Tuesday, four of Boston's finest hotels bring a touch of class to the common cow. Pulling off the first ever Champagne of Cow Milking Contests will be the Lenox, the Boston Park Plaza, the 57 Park Plaza and the Parker House. On Wednesday, the Political Pull will show who really throws their weight around Beacon Hill. Sweet-talking the cow on Thursday will be Cain's Crew from WH-DH. Friday's grand finale is the Musical Milk-Off when Telebelles Singing Telegrams stages a challenge against Balloons over Boston.

An ice cream lover's fantasy is the only way to describe the new addition to the Festival-Scooper Bowl II. From 12-6 p.m. on Wednesday and Thursday, June 6 and 7, a one dollar donation to the Jimmy Fund buys all the ice cream you can eat donated by Bailey's, Brigham's, Emack and Bolio's, Friendly's, Hendrie's, Johnson's, Howard Johnson's, and Steve's. Don't be surprised to find your favorite Boston athletes and celebrities sprinkled among your favorite flavors. Who would miss this ice cream smorgasbord? Scooper Bowl II kicks off at 11:45 a.m. on Wednesday morning with a special ribbon-cutting ceremony. Broadcasting live, will be WHDH radio.

Four dairy cows travel with the show, living in a mobile barn. The automatic milking parlor is also on wheels and features glass walls and pipelines so that spectators can watch the modern method of milking. Exhibits on other types of farming are displayed by the Massachusetts Department of Food and Agriculture.

On weekday mornings, groups of schoolchildren are scheduled to tour the Festival, starting with an introduction to "Bossie." The children learn about dairy cows and nutrition, and a lucky few try their hand at milking. Then it's on to the petting zoo to meet some barnyard animals. The next stop is the "Happy Tooth Show" for a fun approach to good eating habits and dental hygiene. Willie Whistle from Channel 38 will top off the children's visit by serving them cold, fresh milk.

NUMISMATIC SOCIETY

The Middlesex Regional Numismatic Society will host a coin show and coin auction on Saturday, June 2nd at Howard Johnson's in Haverhill, Mass. (exit 49 off of Rt. 495). The show will open at 10 a.m. with 20 area dealers on hand to buy, sell or swap coins and paper money.

At 5 p.m., an open meeting of collectors and interested parties will take place, with the topic being "Early Paper Money And Fractional Currency." During this meeting, numerous door prizes will be given to all who attend. Coffee and soda will be served as well.

At 6 p.m., a coin auction will be held, with a wide selection of U.S. and Foreign coins to sold to the highest bidders. For more information you should contact Steven F. Gray at 373-4001.

COPING WITH CANCER

The Professional Education Committee of the American Cancer Society Middlesex Junction Unit is sponsoring a program entitled "Coping With Cancer - A Total Approach" to be held at the Greater Boston Academy, New England Memorial Hospital, Stoneham.

The program will be held from 6:30 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. on June 7, 1984, and will cover the topics of "Caring for the Cancer Patient," "Coping Strategies for the Care Giver," and "Coping Strategies for Patient and Family," as well as a presentation by a community resources person, followed by a question and answer period.

Registration is through the American Cancer Society office at 145 Munroe Street, Lynn, Ma. 01901 (598-5120).

NEWBURYPORT ANTIQUES

The Newburyport Antiques Show kicks off its second year of quality antiques offerings on June 30 and July 1 at the Plum Island Fairgrounds, just outside the beautifully restored historic district of this North Shore seaport. Directed by Paul J. DeCoste of Newburyport, the show will feature the displays of over 100 dealers from throughout New England and the middle Atlantic states. Country furniture, heirloom quilts, wicker, ephemera, and estate jewelry are just a few of the many categories of exhibits to be featured at the show.

For further information, contact DeCoste at Waterfront Festivals, Ltd., P.O. Box 6159, Newburyport, Ma. 01950, or call (617) 462-1333.

TEEN CAMPING

The Massachusetts Easter Seal Society is now accepting referrals for its new residential Teen Camping Program.

The Society will fill 40 openings in its unit at Agassiz Village in Maine. Four, two-week sessions have been planned for boys and girls between the ages of 14 and 16 years who are physically disabled.

A trained counseling and nursing staff and specially adapted facilities at Agassiz Village are designed to provide teen aged campers with recreational, social and pre-vocational activities and surroundings which are accessible for even campers in wheelchairs.

Campers will be housed in the newly constructed William E. Maloney Lodge. This facility features a fully equipped kitchen, recreation room and

Choate-Symmes Health services

Forty-three volunteers honored

Choate-Symmes Health Services Inc. recently honored 43 volunteers for their total service to the Choate Hospital and Regional Health Center-Wilmington Divisions over the years. Their volunteer work represents an accumulation of 37,700 hours of time.

The volunteers were honored at the third annual Volunteer Recognition Program at the Museum of Our National Heritage in Lexington. Eleanor Matthews, director of volunteer services at Choate-Symmes, welcomed the participants. Greetings were offered by Paul Downey, president of Choate-Symmes Health Services Inc. Nancy McKersie, volunteer coordinator at Choate, and Vera Milano, volunteer coordinator at the Regional Health Center-Wilmington, made the service pin presentations.

The individual clocking the most number of hours as a Choate volunteer was Eleanor Martin of Woburn. She has volunteered 7500 hours, most of them in the hospital coffee shop.

Another Woburn resident, Bertha Otis, had the next highest hour total: 3500. Two others, Ruth Johnson of Wilmington and Marie McCall of Woburn, each volunteered 3000 hours at Choate.

Two Woburn residents have devoted 2500 hours each. They are Sophie Bates and Ann Mawn.

Giving 2000 hours each at Choate were Eleanor Campatelli and Catherine Turbet. They are both Woburn residents.

Barbara Leavitt of Woburn was honored for 1500 hours, and recognized for 1000 hours were Louise Brown, Mary McCaffrey, Mary McElhiney, and Lanelle Roberts, all of Woburn.

Eight volunteers have each given 500 hours to Choate. They are Julia Corry, Dorothy Craft, Nora Donohue, Rita Iannocci, Marie Mota, George Maher, and Jeannette West, all of Woburn, and Eileen Flaherty of Billerica. Mrs. West is the former director of volunteers at the Choate Division.

Volunteers with 100 hours included Claire Bonike, Irene Goodsell, Edna Hatfield, Alice Lynch, Mary MacEachern, Alice Markham, and Beatrice Picard, all of Woburn; Patricia Fitzpatrick and Rita Hayes of Burlington; William Frey and Rita O'Hara of Wilmington; and Rita Martinez of Winchester.

The volunteers who respond to Choate's Talkline were also honored for their contributions in the past year. Each of those ten was honored for his or her 100 hours.

Ruth Pine was recognized for 1000 hours at the Regional Health Center in Wilmington. She is a Wilmington resident.

semi-private living accommodations. Campers will have the opportunity to participate in a special Counselor-In-Training Program. Activities will also include swimming, archery, a ropes program, wheelchair sports and field trips.

Transportation is provided to and from Maine each session. Scholarship assistance is available for all qualifying youngsters.

The Society also conducts a camping program for disabled children, ages 6 to 13 years at Agassiz Village. Young adults, ages 17 to 25 years, are eligible to participate in the Society's camping program at the Hemlocks Outdoor Education Center in Connecticut.

Prospective campers interested in making application to Easter Seal Camping should write to the Easter Seal Society

Camping Department, 934 Statler Office Building, 20 Park Plaza, Boston, Ma. 02116 or call (617) 482-3370 or 1-800-922-8290.

LADIES' DOG CLUB

The Ladies' Dog Club's 67th Annual Dog Show and Obedience Trial, a highlight in dog show events, will take place Saturday, June 2, and the Commonwealth Career Center, Route 16, 900 Washington Avenue, Wellesley, Massachusetts.

Many of the top dogs in the country will compete representing approximately 150 A.K.C. breeds and varieties. 2000 dogs are expected. Six clubs from the New England area will be holding their specialty shows in conjunction with the Ladies Dog Club this year. They include the TarTan Gordon Setter Club, the Yankee Weimeraner Club, the Airedale Terrier Club of New England, the New England Chow Chow Club, the Downeaster Belgian Sheepdog Club. The following clubs will be supporting their breed entries at the Show: the Yankee Golden Retriever Club, the Irish Setter Club of New England, the Colonial Afghan Club, the Norwegian Elkhound Minuteman Association, the Bernese Mountain Dog Club of Nashoba Valley, Pilgrim Doberman Pinscher Club, the Great Dane Club of New England, the Colonial Rottweiler Club, the Minuteman Samoyed Club, the Yankee Siberian Husky Club, the Dandie Dinmont Terrier Club of American, the Scottish Terrier Club of New England, the Puritan Shih Tzu Club, the Merrimack Lhasa Apso Club, the Poodle Club of Massachusetts, the German Shepherd Dog Club of Central Massachusetts, the Pilgrim Puli Club, and the Colonial Shetland Sheepdog Club.

Junior Showmanship classes for children between 10 and 16 years of age will take place. This popular attraction enables the younger person to compete in handling ability. Classes in Obedience will be held for dogs competing in the Novice, Open and Utility levels. Judges will be coming from all parts of the United States, Canada, and England. Mrs. James Edward Clark of Centerville, Maryland, will judge Best in Show.

The show is open to the public and should be of interest to people of all ages. The Show opens at 8 a.m. with judging beginning at 9.

The price of admission is $3.50 for adults, $2.00 for senior citizens, and $1.00 for children; there is a special family rate of $10.00. There is ample parking on the show grounds.

A popular event from last year's show to be held again this year will be an exhibition of Hurdle Racing. This will take place in the early afternoon.

Mrs. Joan Bartlett, President of the Ladies' Dog Club, is being assisted by Mrs. Helen Sokopp, Chairman of this year's show, Mrs. Susan Gray, Assistant Chairman, and Miss Mary A. Warren, Obedience Chairman.

All American Kennel Club registered dogs are eligible to be entered in the show.

Proceeds from the show will benefit several animal related projects. The show grounds, a vast expanse of lawn area and pine-shaded woodland along the Charles River in Wellesley and Dover, were once part of a large estate. Excellent refreshments will be available throughout the day and there is ample room for family picnics and recreation.

SHEEP SHEARING

With spring plowing and planting well under way at Old Sturbridge Village, Sturbridge, Massachusetts, Village farmers began shearing the Village sheep on Saturday, May 26, the start of Wool Days at the living history museums. All stages of the early 19th-century process of turning raw wool into yarn and fabric will be demonstrated through June 3.

On the first day of shearing, Village farmers will lead the sheep to the creek below the Freeman Farm to wash their heavy winter coats in the running stream.

Sheep shearing, using early 19th-century methods, will be demonstrated daily at the Salem Towne House through June 1, and at the Freeman Farm June 2 and 3.

Sorting and scouring the shorn fleeces, the next steps in the historical textile process, will be demonstrated 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., June 3 in the Towne House barnyard, weather permitting. Here, women will wash the raw wool in large iron kettles over open fires and spread the cleaned wool out to dry.

Visitors are also invited to visit the Village's water-powered Carding Mill, where antique carding machines of the 1820's comb the wool to align the fibers for spinning. Demonstrations at the Carding Mill are held daily year round.

At the Textile Exhibit, women in historical dress will spin the rolls of combed wool into fine woolen yarn, using a reproduction of an early 19th-century walking wheel. In the same exhibit, a weaver using an antique floor loom will work on a colorful, striped woolen rug, reproducing an antique in the museum's collections. Later this year, the finished rug will be used in the sitting room of the Salem Towne House on the Common.

Yarn dyeing, using the natural dyes that were available to early New England housewives, will be demonstrated outdoors under the pavilion near the Herb Garden June 2 and 3.

Old Sturbridge Village, Sturbridge, Mass., is a living history museum that re-creates the everyday life of a rural New England town some 160 years ago. The museum's 200 acre site contains more than 40 restored buildings where people in historical dress demonstrate the life, work, and community celebrations of early 19th-century New Englanders.

Old Sturbridge Village is open daily, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Admission is $7.50 for adults; $3.50 for children ages 6-15, and children under age 6 are admitted free. Old Sturbridge Village is located on Route 20 west in Sturbridge, Mass. near exit 9 of the Massachusetts Turnpike, and exit 3 of Interstate 86.

Reading Rotary Road Race on June 2nd

The very popular Reading Rotary Club 10K Road Race and 1 1/2 Mile Fun Run has been scheduled for Sunday, June 3rd with the start and finish being at the Reading YMCA.

This marks the fifth year for the race and it has become one of the most popular and well organized running events in the greater Boston area. Because of its popularity, the race will be limited to 600 runners this year.

As usual, Allan Bissett of the Reading Rotary is the director of both races and he is aided by a full contingent of Reading Rotary volunteers. This year's event promises to be as successful as the last four.

The 1 1/2 Mile Fun Run (Limit 200 runners) will begin the festivities with a starting time of 9:30 pm. It is hoped that everyone will register in advance but if not, registrations will be allowed at 9:00 am the day of the race as long as the limit has not been reached.

The 10K race is scheduled for 10:30 am and again runners are urged to register in advance (See application elsewhere on this page). There will be a great many categories varying from the young to the old, the men to the women. Trophies and medals will be presented in the different divisions.

Every runner entering the Fun Run will be given a Painters' Hat courtesy of Johnson's True Value Hardware and every runner entering the 10K race will receive a Special Runner's Hat courtesy of Baybank Middlesex.

There is a $2.00 registration fee for the Fun Run and a $4.00 registration fee for the 10K race. Registrations may be mailed to P.O. Box 61 Reading, Ma or may be dropped off at Johnson's Hardware on Haven St. in downtown Reading.

Because of the numbers of volunteers and the donations on local businesses, there is probably not a race anywhere where the participants receive such professional treatment.

There are water stations conveniently located along the route of the race, there are clearly marked courses for both races, there will be electronic timers for each runner, there will be certificates of completion for each runner, there will be an adequate supply of refreshments for all runners, there will be a number of special prizes and gifts.

Woodchips

By ANTHONY MANCONI

I told my friend, Robert Burns, of Woburn, that there are a hundred billion stars in the universe. "If you say so," Woodchipper, I believe it." Then I told him that the bench in Woburn Sq. was freshly painted and Bob had to touch it to make sure.

Folks, life is not a bowl of 'cherries' — it's more like a bunch of 'raisins' — 'raisin' money for the rent or taxes — 'raisin' money for food, clothing and college tuition.

Some guy called me to tell me that there's a book called 'Who's Who.' It's a book of famous prominent people. He also added, "Don't worry, your name will never be in it." But I may be in, 'What's This.' "Is that so?" I exclaimed, "I'll write my own book called 'Who the heck cares?'"

I walked into a heated argument at the club last night. The debate was about who was the highest-ranking officer from our general area in World War II. They mentioned names of captains, majors, and even a general. I was asked to voice my opinion so I told them, "I don't particularly care what rank or how many medals a man wears. The soldier who rates the highest in my book is the one who earned the right to wear the 'Combat Infantryman's Badge.' He's the man Ernie Pyle wrote about — he's the one who landed first on Omaha Beach, plowed through seas of mud in 'Sunny Italy,' Anzio, Salerno and Cassino and his counterpart was doing the same in the jungles of the South Pacific. I saluted all officers and every man who wore the 'Combat Infantryman's Badge.'"

My army psychiatrist said to me, "Woodchipper, you're crazy!" I demanded and got a second opinion. "OK," he added, "you're ugly too!"

I knew Mike Viviano was going on a trip last week. I saw the bags under his eyes. A Japanese motor car company, commissioned a German advertising agency to come up with a name for a new car they were building that would be coming off the assembly line in two weeks. The German agency wired back, "Dat soon?" "That's it!" That's it!" exclaimed the Japanese executives. "Dat sun is a wonderful name!"

When I mention a person as being beautiful, I don't mean external beauty of face, form or figure. A woman entered City Hall, then let the door go almost striking a little old lady behind her. In looks many would consider her a movie star. I would think so too, as "Frankenstein's Wife."

I came home late last night and said to my wife, "I'll bet you'd never guess where I've been tonight?" "I could," she snapped, "but tell your story anyway."

Eve, was made from a rib of Adam, that's OK, it was a "Spare rib," anyway.

The most important thing a father can do for his children is "love" their mother. My cousin, Mark Aloisi, has a pet frog. He is thinking of taking out insurance on it just in case it "croaks."

I'm a "do-it-yourself" husband because I have a "do-it-or-else" wife. Most women prefer "poverty," with love than "luxury" without it. A Texas oilman's kid walked up to Santa Claus and asked, "Santa, what do you need?"

Folks, nothing is ever gained by losing your temper. I know sometimes it takes the patience of Job to refrain from telling someone off. Two weeks ago, while driving to Lynnfield, the telltale thump thump noise of a flat tire was heard. I pulled over to the breakdown lane, jacked up the car, then discovered the spare was also deflated. So, I sat on the fence on the side of the road to think over what my course of action may be. After 10 minutes, a car stopped and a young man asked, "What's the matter, pop, got a flat tire?" That's all I needed — a PhD candidate to ask me a question like that. Here's a car with a jack under it and two tires on the ground, and this kid asked if I had a flat. What a perfect opportunity to tell this "whipper-snapper" off. I decided to cool it and said, "I've got two flats — the spare is useless!" "Hey," he said, "maybe I can help you." And sure enough, he did: he gave me his spare (which happened to be the same size), helped me put it on, and then drove behind me to a gas station. I refused his tire with thanks and had mine fixed. My monetary offer was refused, but the lesson he taught me was worth a million dollars. "Don't ever lose your temper, you may also lose the help of the Good Samaritan and may not be fortunate to meet a wonderful young man like John McArthur of Lynnfield."

My uncle, Tom Tully, worked for the railroad for years and years. He would tell me stories of the friends he made as a conductor for the B&M on the Lowell to Boston run. Bankers, lawyers, judges and ordinary guys like me. I really take after my mother, who, like Tom, her brother loves people. That's why I enjoy doing this column, but it would give me greater pleasure to meet you personally.

I didn't know there were any more around, but a tramp stopped at my door and asked me for "cake." "What?" I exclaimed, "what ever happened to 'bread'?" "Oh," he replied, "today is my birthday." "Stick around," I told him, "I have a lot of work to do around the garden and I can use a right-hand man to help me." "I'm sorry, sir," he apologized, "I'm left-handed."

Lowell National Park schedule

Lowell National Historical Park, and Lowell Heritage State Park, kick-off their 1984 summer season, season on May 26. An intriguing array of historical tours, including the popular Mill and Canal Tour, highlight the Park's daily offerings. Ethnic festivals, farmer's and artists markets, and a variety of outdoor concerts and special events are scheduled to take place throughout the summer. All activities are free and open to the public. For reservations and information, call (617) 459-1000.

The Park visitor center in the Market Mills Complex, a renovated textile mill, is open daily from 8:30 to 5:00 P.M. The visitor center houses exhibits on the park themes of labor, capital, power, machines, and the industrial city. "Lowell: The Industrial Revolution", an award-winning multi-image slide show, is shown twice each hour.

Free daily tours are available May 26 through October 8 by reservation (617) 459-1000.

THE MILL AND CANAL TOUR — Explore Lowell by canal barge, trolley, and on foot. This three hour tour is an overview of the "Spindle City" and its legacy as the leading textile producing center in America. Includes a hydro-turbine exhibit, operating gatehouses, and costumed interpretation.

SPECIAL INTEREST TOURS (S.I.T.'S) — Unless otherwise noted, all S.I.T.'S are conducted daily from May 26 through September 3. Tours are limited to 32 and reservations are required. Approximately 90 minutes in length.

LOWELL HISTORY — The Lowell System was the model for textile city's throughout New England. The history of Lowell is traced from its beginning as an "Industrial Utopia" through successive waves of immigrants. 9:00 daily.

TUNES AND TALES — Alex Demas presents an absorbing and enriching live performance of tunes, anecdotes, and songs relating to the history of Lowell and the mill era. Vocals are accompanied by an array of folk instruments including banjo, fiddle, mandolin, and Appalachian dulcimer. Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday at 10:30.

MILL AND TROLLEY TOUR — Ride a reproduction 1901 trolley to the Suffolk Mills to learn about the production of cotton textiles in a 19th century factory. Turbines and an operating power loom, will highlight your experience on this tour.

WATERPOWER — How did water move the machinery of Lowell's vast mill complexes? This tour highlights the golden era of waterpower in the 1800's.

PAWTUCKET CANAL BOAT TOUR — The history of Lowell's oldest transportation canal is highlighted on this one-hour tour which includes both trolley and boat rides. Visitors will see a lock chamber, and Francis Gate which saved Lowell from two great floods. Ideal for senior citizen groups, and families with small children. Five times daily, reservations are required.

A Captain's daughter remembers

About tall ships and tug boats

By JIM ROUILLARD

The return of the tall ships to Boston Harbor this week must evoke for many New Englanders almost mythic conceptions of the era of the great sailing craft. That was a time when the American China trade prospered, and some of the greatest and fastest clipper ships ever built in this country were constructed at the East Boston shipyard of master shipbuilder and architect Donald McKay.

But for Rosina Ross Bowdidge of Stoneham, the return of the great barks, barkentines and schooners provides even more tangible and immediate memories from her own childhood and youth in East Boston along with tales of hardtack biscuit and swordfish, rescues at sea and the almost incredible dangers of the stealthy fog. These tales, involving both the prosaic and the picturesque, were related by her father, tugboat captain Smith A. Ross, who played an integral part in the day-to-day operations of Boston Harbor for almost half a century.

Captain Ross, licensed master mariner and harbor pilot, was born in 1870 on Cape Sable Island, Shelburne County, Nova Scotia, just 25 miles or so, by flight of the seagull, from the Shelburne birthplace of the acclaimed Donald McKay. The five-day Spirit of Massachusetts Tall Ships Festival this week honors McKay, and celebrates the 200th anniversary of the opening of the China Trade. Like McKay, Smith A. Ross was of Scottish heritage, and also emigrated from Nova Scotia to the United States as a young man. He obtained his master mariner and harbor pilot credentials at the port of Boston, Mrs. Bowdidge said, and was licensed as a pilot for the entire eastern seaboard. Ross took to piloting with great enthusiasm, his daughter said, for like his more famous countryman, McKay, he had conceived an early love of the sea and ships.

According to historian Edward Rowe Snow, Donald McKay was riding down to the waterfront, sitting on top of a wagonload of potatoes from his father's Shelburne farm, when he first beheld a Great Banks schooner. McKay decided, then and there, at the age of seven, that he would like to be involved in the building of ships. Snow wrote in Yankee Magazine. Growing up on an island off the southernmost tip of Nova Scotia, the young Smith Ross must also have noticed great sailing ships at an early age. But, according to his daughter, Ross' first voyage clearly did not seem to indicate a future career at sea.

"It was in 1878," Mrs. Bowdidge relates, "that my dad first went to sea, for three months, on a swordfishing voyage. He was only eight years old — and it was not an auspicious beginning for a mariner — because he told me he cried for his mother the entire time. The only solace he found was in the galley," where, presumably, the cook offered him some comfort beyond the usual hardtack and salt cod, perhaps an occasional sweet. Maybe the galley reminded him of his mother's kitchen. At any rate, he survived his first unhappy experience at sea and obviously loved the ocean enough to come to Boston, Mrs. Bowdidge said, in the last decade of the 19th century, to earn his license and start his career as a pilot.

As soon as he obtained his papers, the young Ross, who had settled on Eagle Street in East Boston, immediately began work at the Ross Towboat Company there, founded and operated by family relatives.

The Ross Towboat Company consisted of seven tugboats, according to Mrs. Bowdidge, all but one named for a member of the Ross family, including Sadie and Betsey, Hamilton and Irving, Rosses all. The tugboat, according to author Eugene Moran (Tugboat: The Moran Story), dates back to 1801, when the Charlotte Dundas was built for towing barges on the Forth and Clyde Canal in Scotland. In the days of the sailing ships, Mrs. Bowdidge said, tugboats were indispensable in every port of the world, and though the American China trade had declined by the time Smith A. Ross obtained his pilot's license, his talents were needed in Boston Harbor, piloting many four and five-masted schooners into their berths at Long, Rowe and T Wharves.

It was at T Wharf, in fact, just as the century turned, that Captain Ross encountered the truly picturesque. He had just disembarked from his tug and came upon a young American Indian boy, sitting on the wharf. The boy, ragged and obviously hungry, was wearing a pair of women's high-button shoes he had scavenged somewhere. Mrs. Bowdidge (who was just an infant at the time) said the boy told her father that his name was "Charlie Sullivan, born on the 4th of July," and that he had hopped freight trains from the American west all the way to Boston. Captain Ross took the exhausted boy home with him, where his wife, Christine (Coch) Ross "plunked him into the tub, made sure he had a good scrub, and outfitted him with her brother Charlie's clothes, since they were of a size and the same age."

Captain and Mrs. Ross raised "Charlie Sullivan, born on the 4th of July," with their own three children, Rosina, Paul and Warren, in East Boston, Mrs. Bowdidge said. Charlie Sullivan later became master electrician for the old Boston Opera House, near Symphony Hall.

Eugene Moran also notes in his book on tugboats that during the days of sail, many ports could not be entered by large sailing ships without the help of "a fair wind ahead," as sailors often called the tug. The tugboats which Ross captained provided just such a "fair wind ahead" for the four and five-masted schooners and large ocean-going liners that he guided into Boston Harbor — and also served as towboats for long strings of barges, sometimes loaded with coal, sometimes with other cargo, according to Mrs. Bowdidge.

The tugboat is, by encyclopedia definition, a small steam-vessel, having very large engines of great horse power, used for towing much larger vessels in and out of harbors. The thrill of being a passenger aboard the small but mighty Sadie or Betsey Ross was breathtaking, Mrs. Bowdidge said, as her father's tugs towed the graceful schooners or majestic ocean liners up Boston Harbor or beyond Boston Light, despite Captain Ross' teasing jokes that his little girl was a "Jonah".

IN CAPTAIN'S UNIFORM, Smith A. Ross stands aboard the Nantasket Steamship Company's Boston-to-Nantasket boat, which he captained after his retirement from the Ross Towboat Company.

"When I was a boy," my father would say, "We used to call any woman on board a Jonah, and the ships would all put up a battle ax flag as a warning that a woman was on board, and it meant bad luck. Rosie, you're a Jonah," he would tell me.

"I've seen those battle ax flags," Mrs. Bowdidge added, "With the picture of a medieval ax like the type used to behead Ann Boleyn. In fact, my cousin would put a battle ax flag up on his small cruiser, whenever his wife was on board."

Mrs. Bowdidge also remembers that her breath was sometimes literally taken away when she watched her father clamber up rope ladders coated in ice, to get aboard a schooner. She'd worry he might slip, she said — though he never did — and she always felt relieved and proud when he appeared high up on the schooner's pilothouse to direct his tugs as they towed the splendid craft to safe harbor. She said she knew, but never saw, that he also had to climb those rope ladders during gales when the high winds seriously compounded the danger from the icy rungs. But apparently his own safety was not always his primary concern, for he was credited with saving men from drowning, on nine separate occasions, she added, almost as an afterthought.

Many nights, Mrs. Bowdidge said, her father came in after running barges down off Orleans, on Cape Cod, with the fog clotting thick and treacherous: "My eyes are coming out of my head," he'd say, "From that fog. We almost lost the barges."

During World War I, according to Mrs. Bowdidge, her father piloted submarines on trial trips out to Narragansett Bay from the Fore River Shipyard out of Fall River. She also remembers that his longest towing jobs were to Block Island, Rhode Island.

Then, in the 1940s, after nearly half a century of piloting, Captain Ross was growing tired from his duties on the Ross family tugboats. He retired from the Ross Towboat Company and served as captain of the Nantasket Steamship Company boats from Boston to Nantasket Beach for two summers before retiring altogether.

As for life aboard the tugboats, Mrs. Bowdidge added, "It was really quite comfortable. Dad captained a crew of four to five men, and always insisted that the cook on board really knew his business, not only for his own

Amputee runs to Los Angeles

The man who's stopped others from scoring as Boston College's varsity lacrosse goalie will soon be shooting for his own goal.

Jeff Keith, an above-the-knee amputee, will trade in his goalie equipment for a pair of running shoes and a roadmap to reach completing triathlons in New York and Massachusetts as well as being the starting goalie on the Boston College Eagles' varsity lacrosse team.

Jeff will undertake his latest challenge on June 4 following a prayer breakfast in the Great Hall of Quincy Market. He'll Jeff Keith entitled, "Run Jeff Run". The organizers, the Florida based Run Jeff Run, Inc., are also negotiating for the production of a made-for-television movie.

The run has already grabbed national media attention when Jeff and Teddy Kennedy, Jr. appeared April 6 on ABC's Good Morning America program to discuss the run. Teddy, who was also "physically challenged" when he lost a leg to bone cancer, will join Jeff during the first mile of his run across America.

Both avid skiers, Jeff and Teddy, son of Massachusetts Senator Edward Kennedy, became friends while participating in programs sponsored by NISRA.

Along the rest of the route, Jeff will be accompanied by a van carrying his brother David and several friends.

He'll also be experimenting with the latest in prosthetic technology, the "Seattle Foot." The foot, developed by Dr. Andrew Burgess and technicians from Boeing, gives amputees more flexibility when participating in athletics.

Keith first gained national attention when he was the only amputee to compete among the 470 athletes in the July 1983 Bud Light triathlon at Lake Mahopac, in Putnam County, New York. He was in 31st place after coming out of the water in the 1 1/2 mile swim, 25 mile bike ride and 9.25 mile run, event. Overall, he was 312th out of the pack of 332 who finished the race.

A month later, he turned in his best time ever while finishing 501st out of a field of 550 in the August 1983 Bud Light triathlon in Falmouth, Massachusetts.

Now, several networks, including ABC, NBC, the Cable News Network and the cable sports network ESPN, have shown interest in covering Jeff's cross country run.

Jeff has also received attention from his hometown press as well as Boston newspapers. The New York Daily News intends to prepare a feature piece on Jeff in a color magazine piece in an upcoming Sunday edition. Boston television station WCVR is also preparing a 20 minute segment on Jeff and his activities.

But, probably more important than the run and the media coverage, the 6'2", 180 pound Keith looks forward to using the 24 off days during the grueling 180 schedule to spread his message across the country. He'll be making several hundred appearances at prosthetic facilities, senior citizens centers, hospitals and rehabilitation centers. He'll also make regular appearances before civic groups along the route.

He will extend his message beyond handicapped athletes to stress, "Life is in front of us. It is up to us to reach out and make it grow."

Wakefield Recycling now accepting paper

WAKEFIELD — The Wakefield Recycling Committee (WRC), at its monthly meeting on Tuesday night, May 22, decided to make the two-day paper drive a permanent feature of its wastepaper recycling program.

On the third weekend of every month, recyclers may bring their newspapers, magazines and phone books to the Junior High School on either Saturday or Sunday, from 9 a.m.-3 p.m., rain or shine.

Since the first two-day drive was such a success, collecting over 35 tons of paper, and since Sunday recyclers seemed very happy with the arrangement, "We'll do it every month from now on," said Patty Boghos of the WRC. "Even though the Sunday total was less than half of the Saturday total in tons collected, we think we can bring more people out and try to get 50 tons before long," she explained.

Sunday openings would also allow many other non-profit organizations to serve as co-sponsors in 1984, since all of the Saturdays have been assigned. Groups eager to co-sponsor are being recruited now for the Sunday openings. In June, The League of Women Voters agreed to work both days, since it was believed that it will take another month before publicity about Sunday openings will have an impact. The WRC is grateful to the League for agreeing to serve another day.

The WRC also decided to set up tables at each drive and display Recycling s-10 his goal of running 20 miles a day for 50 days in a trek from Boston to Los Angeles. He will begin his run on Monday at Faneuil Hall.

But, the adjustment for Keith will be minor. The 21-year-old graduating Boston College English major has been in extensive training, running ten miles a day.

The Fairfield, Conn. native says he's undertaking the massive effort to drive home his message that there are no handicapped people in life, only those who have been "physically challenged."

Keith became "physically challenged" at the age of 12. After playing in an ice hockey game, Jeff complained of some pain in his knee. At first thought to be caused by a play on the ice, doctors later discovered Jeff was suffering from bone cancer.

Doctors had to amputate his right leg above the knee. Jeff then fought through 18 months of chemotherapy treatments before winning his battle.

Since then, he has met his challenge by participating in skiing programs offered by the New England Handicapped Sportsmen's Association.

Commencement exercises at Our Lady of Nazareth Academy in Wakefield

The 36th graduating class of Our Lady of Nazareth Academy in Wakefield held its commencement exercises at an evening ceremony on Thursday, May 17, in Emilian Center at the Academy. The evening began with a welcome by senior class president, Deborah Mirabello of Woburn. This was followed by a Mass of Graduation celebrated by the Reverend James Hickey of Saint Agnes' Parish in Reading and assisted by the Reverend Mr. Jack Fenton, Deacon of Saint Agnes' parish. Liturgy readings were delivered by Margaret Doherty of Reading, Nancy Gahagan of Peabody, Cynthia O'Neil of Stoneham, Ann High of Melrose and Deborah Mirabello of Woburn. The Communion meditation was delivered by Maureen Ross of Peabody.

Following the Mass, Reverend Mr. Jack Fenton began the graduation ceremonies with an opening prayer. Sister Mary Angela, SCN, principal of OLN, then welcomed everyone to the 36th ceremony. Following Sister's welcome, Kathleen Adams of Stoneham, Valedictorian of the Class of 1984, presented her address to her classmates and guests.

The 61 candidates for diplomas were presented by senior homeroom teachers and advisors Ms. Karen Gahagan, Ms. Dale Haywood and Mrs. Carol Kelly-Suleski. Sister Mary Angela conferred the diplomas.

The Awards Ceremony for the Class of 1984 was held on Wednesday, May 16. At the ceremony, graduates were recognized for outstanding achievement in a variety of areas. The evening began with an opening prayer by Mrs. Patricia McGrew, pastoral minister, followed by a welcome from Sister Mary Angela. Pamela Maine of Stoneham, Salutatorian of the Class of 1984, presented her address to her classmates and guests. The senior voice students (Christine Cavagnaro of Reading, Lisa Cipriano of Winchester, Margaret Doherty of Reading, Nancy Gahagan of Peabody, Abigail Herrick of Wilmington, Christine Horrigan of Reading, Pamela Maine of Stoneham, Kathleen McCauley of Wakefield, Christine Sheehan of Swampscott, Frances Vella of Wilmington and Andrea Wilson of Wakefield) followed with the song, "How Great Thou Art."

Deborah Mirabello, class president, introduced the faculty speaker, Reverend Mr. Jack Fenton. Following Deacon Fenton's address, the senior voice students presented the song "Blessed Be The Lord."

Sister Mary Angela and faculty members presented numerous awards to the graduates. The awards section of the ceremony concluded with Sister Mary Angela and Ms. Karen Juliano, vice-principal, presenting each member of the graduating class with two gifts from the Academy.

The senior voice students followed with the song, "The City of God." The Class of 1984 then presented their class song, "We've Only Just Begun" and closed the evening with the school song, "Hymn to Our Lady of Nazareth."

Many artists to exhibit at Wakefield Art Festival

Thanks to a grant from the Wakefield Art Lottery, this year's art festival on the common will be bigger and better than previous years. It will be held June 2 and 3 (raindate June 9) on the upper Common in Wakefield.

A wide variety of arts and crafts will be on exhibit and for sale.

Some of the prominent artists in the show will be: Carol L. McElderry from Holliston, Wildlife art in watercolors and pen/ink; Forrest Musser of Reading, Sculptured acrylic paintings and watercolors; April Lang of Exeter, N.H., Calligraphy; Robert G. Fraser, Salem. Acrylic paintings, pen/ink drawings; John A. Beville, Wilmington, Acrylic paintings; Denise Patchell Olson, Peterborough, N.H., watercolor paintings; Steve Harwood, Reading, Art decor photography; Linda Robillard, Townsend, Folk art; grapevine wreaths, w/folk art attachments; Judith Larmay, S. Lawrence, Portraits, landscapes, seascapes and still lifes; Vera R. Whelan, Malden, Dolls, quilts, pillows and stuffed animals; Dawn Shilts and Linda Witters, Wakefield, Cabbage Patch Dolls and accessories and stenciling; Edmond C. Johnson, North Easton, N. England landscapes and marine in oils and watercolors; Richard F. Elliot, Stoneham, Oil paintings; Bill and Sharon Landfair, Pocasset, Wheel-thrown stoneware pottery; Pia and Umberto Centofante, Arlington, Oil paintings; Jacqueline Jamison and Nora Littlefield of Lynnfield, Quality handcrafted wooden items; Neil F. Wetherbee, Arlington, Photography; Clifford H. Bar-chard, Medford, Stained glass, needlepoint; Robert and Evelyn Shilliday, Arlington, Oil, watercolor paintings and photographs.

This year's talent from Wakefield includes: Myrna Bizarro, acrylic and watercolor renditions of her many paintings; Betsy Rogers with watercolors of landscapes; Ingrid Hasan and her watercolors of the famous Wakefield landmarks and scenes. Also, Herb Hewitt with those lovely marine oil paintings; and Bill Velmore, our world-famous wildlife artist.

There will also be a special exhibit by young Wakefield artists who have shown extraordinary talent. Come and feast your eyes!

The public is invited to join in our festivities. Be sure to come and inquire about our new Wakefield Art Guild, which is open to everyone interested in art. You don't have to be a painter to enjoy the arts.

Co-ed summer school offered at Austin Prep

Austin Preparatory School of Reading has announced the registration schedule for its annual co-ed summer session. Applicants may register by mail after May 21, or in person during Registration Week, June 18-22, Monday through Friday. Interested applicants or parents may contact Mr. David Gramling daily during school hours at Austin Prep (telephone 944-4900 ext. 48).

Enrollment is open to all students who are interested in pursuing studies in the areas offered. Individual tutoring is also being offered and arranged for students in courses for which enrollment is not sufficient for classroom instruction. Courses will be offered for three purposes: advancement, remedial work, and enrichment. Classes will begin on Tuesday, June 26 and will end on Friday, August 3. Classes will be held Tuesday through Friday mornings during that period.

Full academic credit of one unit will be given to the student who successfully completes a course. Students enrolled in schools other than Austin will have official transcripts forwarded to their schools.

Special courses will be offered for students who wish to prepare for entering the ninth grade. These include a Study Skills Practicum and preparation courses in high school math and English. Among the courses listed are Computer Programming, Accounting, Preparation for College Boards, courses in five foreign languages, and various offerings in math, history, religion, typing, and sciences.

Recycling

Plans to enter a float in the 4th of July parade are being made; the WRC members decided that this fun and festive opportunity to spread the recycling message to Wakefield citizens should not be missed. A flat bed trailer appropriate for the occasion is being sought by the Committee. Small handbills are going to be distributed from page S-9 by WRC members to those households where bundled papers are being left out for collection on trash day. A gentle prod will be given to those folks who aren't doing their part for community recycling in this day, and it is hoped that this personal message will convince people that recycling is good for Wakefield.

'Spinal Tap'

Irreverent, outrageous, vulgar and creative, "This is Spinal Tap" is a satire on rock documentaries that will leave you laughing as the credits roll and the lights come up.

Written by Carl Reiner, Christopher Guest, Michael McKean and Harry Shearer, this irreverent spoof of the non-existent, British rock group Spinal Tap has some of the most clever dialogue ever heard in a theater, lyrics which are in unbelievably poor taste, leather pants, drugs, spacy groupies and five feeble-minded, over-the-hill rockers with sawdust for brains and an equally dim-witted manager, complete this accurate and riotously funny picture of the rock scene.

McKean, better known as Lenny from the "Laverne and Shirley" show, plays the dazed leader of this band of losers with such confusion that he is not only funny, he is pathetic. Guest gives an outstanding performance as his equally stupid and self-indulgent partner and the rest of the cast is superb. "This is Spinal Tap" comes highly recommended.

Tall Ships

delight, but for the comfort of the crew as well. He was a man who admired and achieved physical fitness, a man who always demonstrated and maintained his calm, to discharge his duties effectively. And those duties were often dangerous and carried a heavy responsibility of lives and cargo.

"Dad was a man who won the esteem of men from all walks of life, from derelicts and from men of letters."

Captain Smith A. Ross was not the only mariner in Mrs. Bowditch's family. Her late younger brother, Paul Ross, served in the Coast Guard, attained the rank of Lieutenant Commander, and served on so-called "suicide missions" during World War II. His ships were camouflaged off the Atlantic coast, she said, to fool the enemy. They were camouflaged so well, in fact, that they sometimes attracted enemy fire. Her nephew, Paul Ross' son David, also established a seafaring career, graduating from the Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, Long Island. The Academy, by the way, Mrs. Bowditch said, was founded by the famous Salem mathematician and astronomer, Nathaniel Bowditch — not to be confused with Bowditch.

Ironically, the Spirit of Massachusetts Festival in Boston Harbor this week must be a source of both pride and poignancy to Mrs. Bowditch, for though she said the return of the tall ships recalls so well her father's career — their arrival coincides almost exactly with the anniversary of Captain Smith A. Ross' death, on Memorial Day, 1945.

As for Rosina Ross Bowditch herself, it is impossible not to see in her something of the sea itself and of the tall ships that she has loved for a lifetime. Her perfect, erect posture and her personal charm reflect the grace and serenity of the great sailing craft — and her memories of Boston Harbor in an earlier time must evoke an ache of nostalgia in any of us who think we might have liked to go down to the sea in ships.

Gardening with Wildlife

Any backyard, from several acres to a few square yards - even a window box - can become a wildlife refuge-in-miniature.

The National Wildlife Federation's new "Gardening with Wildlife" kit is designed to help create a backyard environment where birds, butterflies, small animals, trees and flowers can thrive.

Included in the kit's 33 items are a planting guide, a wildlife habitat log for your personal records, a bird feeding preferences booklet and patterns to build birdhouses and feeding tables.

For more information about the "Gardening with Wildlife" kit, write to National Wildlife Federation, Dept. 170, 1412 16th St., NW, Washington, DC 20036.

From the MEA to the NWE, from Beverly to New York City, COMING ATTRACTIONS has something for everyone, we hope. But if you know of an event of interest to all that we have overlooked, write, care of this local newspaper and tell us all about it. With the good weather, there are all kinds of things we are just itching to do.
